General Election In Canada Waits Turn International Tide

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 29.—A general election in Canada waits on the turn of the disturbed situation in Europe and the Orient, Prime Minister Mackenzie King intimated to a press conference Wednesday.

The summer months will show the turn of the international tide. If there is assurance of continued peace there may be an appeal to the country by the King government in the fall.

If there is no assurance—and France's Premier Daladier has stated the situation is serious—then Canada will not be plunged into the throes of an election, but the present parliament will stand by for call.

The prime minister made his position clear at the press conference. He was asked if there was a likelihood of another session of parliament before the general election.

LOTS OF TIME

"There is lots of time to think of that," said Mr. King. "Another session of parliament is quite possible."

"There are a number of matters of domestic concern to be dealt with, such as those we dealt with today," he added. "These matters should be cleared up before we consider anything else.

"I have been away part of the time, and the other ministers have been busy with many things.

"Then there is Canada's position to consider," went on Mr. King in a graver tone. "Her position in world affairs. I would like to see the

International Showdown Is Expected In August: Governments Bare Plans

By JOE ALEX MORRIS

British United Press Foreign News Editor. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, June 29—Europe is choosing up sides with fatalistic calm for the next big—if not decisive—test of strength. That there will be another international showdown no one in a position of authority in London, Berlin, Rome, Paris seems to doubt.

When it will come and whether it will mean a general war are less easily answered questions, but the word "August" has been whispered through diplomatic circles for almost a month and now both the British and French governments have disclosed extraordinary military precautions for immediately after Europe's harvest time.

With Great Britain apparently ready to complete an alliance with Soviet Russia, the opposing lines across the continent have been so solidified and each camp has become so confident that the other side will give ground in a showdown that many observers believe the actual danger is greater today than ever.

In addition to the fact that such influential forces as those centered at the Vatican not only have failed to break the international deadlock but have failed to unearth any definite prospect for an early solution, two fundamental factors must stand out as guides to the future:

1—Great Britain and Germany now stand face-to-face in a perilous game of power politics in which retreat for either might easily be a prelude to disaster.

2—Adolf Hitler firmly intends to continue reconstruction of the Greater Reich and, unless he has deceived some of the most astute observers in Europe, his next move will be toward Danzig and the Polish corridor.

Throughout Europe there is a striking and highly dangerous contrast in the attitude of the people of cities within two or three hours flight of each other.

EACH SIDE CONFIDENT

Each side is now confident of itself.

Londoners in gray top hats and morning coats en route to the race track, walk through streets overshadowed by huge signs reading "Enroll Now; We Must Be Prepared," while along the same street march overall-clad anti-aircraft volunteers.

In Berlin, workers pulled down flags and banners to mark the end of a series of elaborate military demonstrations for visiting poten-

Week-end Conflict In Sight

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, June 29. — A series of unofficial reports circulated in high French, British and foreign diplomatic offices today that a showdown was likely soon on return of Danzig to Germany.

Premier Edouard Daladier called a parliamentary group into secret consultation and told them flatly that the general staff had received "confirmation" of German infiltration into Danzig and foresaw the possibility of action during the coming week-end.

Daladier repeated to the parliamentarians that, as he told the chamber of deputies yesterday, the situation was more dangerous now than at any time in 20 years.

The information received in both Paris and London appeared to have been responsible for extensive precautions taken by both the French and British governments to be ready for any possible emergency in July or August.

Britain Provides For 89,300 Increase In Its Regular Army

By WALLACE CARROLL

British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, June 29.—Great Britain provided for an increase of 89,300 men in its regular army strength today as reports from European capitals indicated increased anxiety over the possibility of trouble before the summer ended.

The announcement came in the form of an official "white paper." It followed by 24 hours the disclosure that the 406,000 officers and men of the territorial army had been notified to be prepared for a possible emergency.

The white paper said the additional 89,300 men were required to bring the regular army to a total of 275,000 this year, as compared with the original estimate of 185,700.

MAXIMUM STRENGTH

The increased figure will represent the maximum regular army strength of officers and men, including reserve personnel and auxiliary forces called to the colors, the white paper said.

Supplementary estimates to provide for additional expenditure required will be submitted to parliament later, the white paper said.

Thirty-four thousand men, first batch of conscripts under the new compulsory service law, are to be

EUROPEAN NEWS SENDS WHEAT SKYROCKETING

WINNIPEG, June 29. — The European situation became an important wheat market factor today lifting trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange into new activity after a week in the summer doldrums.

In a splurge of buying, exporters were in the market from the start making large purchases and at the close of trading wheat futures prices had gained as much as two cents a bushel, July leading at 60 cents. Canadian export sales alone were placed at 1,500,000 bushels.

Reports of increasing European political tension and forecasts of an "August crisis" were the dominating factors throughout the day.

Chamberlain Replies To German Charge Of British Hostility

By J. F. SANDERSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 29.—Great Britain last night replied to Chancellor Hitler's charge that Britain "must always be hostile to Germany" by declaring that only an act of aggression by the Reich could bring about British hostility.

The Foreign Office made public a note delivered by the British ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, in Berlin in reply to Hitler's recent abrogation of the 1935 Anglo-German naval agreement and to the German government's memorandum delivered simultaneously with Hitler's action.

The note denied Britain was attempting encirclement of the Reich.

Quoting the German memorandum to the effect the Reich had agreed to limit its navy "on the basis of the firm conviction that for all time recurrence of a warlike conflict between Germany and Great Britain was excluded," but that developments since then had shown Britain "must always be

Halifax Gives Warning Of Anglo Might

By J. F. SANDERSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 29. — Viscount Halifax tonight warned the world of Britain's expanding military strength and the determination of its people to resist aggression and defend international law and order even at the cost of war.

The foreign secretary emphasized before a distinguished gathering that Britain is not prepared to be held up for ransom. On the contrary, he said, there is national unity on the absolute necessity for resisting aggression and, he added, "I would emphasize that tonight with all the strength at my command so that nobody may misunderstand it."

Lord Halifax spoke at a dinner of the Royal Institute of International Affairs. His address later was broadcast in German by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Never since he became foreign secretary has Lord Halifax used such blunt, unmistakable language.

Free City Troubles Mounting

LONDON, June 29.—The British press expressed fears today that a crisis in Danzig soon would be precipitated. A group of parliamentarians was said to be urging Prime Minister Chamberlain to extend conscription.

LONDON, June 29. — Reports reaching here say 4,000 German officers and men have entered Danzig within the last 24 hours, while gas masks were distributed to Danzig police. Danzig shipyards also were reported to have been ordered to dismiss Polish workers. In Berlin, officials said the numerous stories from Poland regarding infiltration of Germans into Danzig, organization of a "Free Corps" and importation of war materials were not true.

WARSAW, June 29.—The Free City of Danzig reinforced her police today with recruits which unconfirmed reports said were well-trained Germans—not Danzigers—being organized into a "Free Corps."

It also was declared Danzig authorities had begun to store meat in a refrigerating plant for possible emergency use.

In the church were friends and associates from many parts of Eastern and Western Canada. Hundreds of Winnipeggers attended the services conducted by Dr. A. E. Kerr, pastor of Augustine, and Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's

New Democracy Chief Promises New Deal Fight

Time of Waiting and Wanting Has Gone By He Tells Audience—Citizens Are Out To Get Their Rights, Declares Speaker

TORONTO, June 29.—Sounding a "trumpet call to action to put an end to want and unemployment in Canada," Hon. W. D. Herridge, D.S.O., M.C., former Canadian minister to Washington, and leader of the New Democracy movement, in an address before the Toronto District Labor Council was given an enthusiastic reception here on Wednesday night when he promised that the coming federal election would see the new party actively in the field fighting for "a new deal for Canada and Canadians," and outlined the New Democracy policies.

"I tell you there is going to be action, right from this day forward. The people are in revolt against the present conditions of life in Canada. This revolt has grown into a great forward movement of our citizens out to get their rights," he declared amid a storm of applause.

"The time of waiting and wanting has gone by. The time for action has come, and democracy marches.

"Not the old democracy with the heel mark of reaction on its neck, but the New Democracy which means to govern."

"Are you content to go on in this way; you who would work and have no work to do; you who work hard at near starvation levels; you who are young and futureless; you who are old and need a friendly hand; you who are sick and homeless and in despair; you who would save your country from this needless tragedy?" he asked, and was answered with a shouted chorus of "no, no" which shook the roof.

Major Herridge outlined a bold policy, which, he said the New Democracy proposed to put into force if given a mandate. Security for all, with the natural wealth of Canada at the service of the people of Canada; a standard of living equal to that of the United States; better food; better clothing; better housing; better transportation and communications; better health and greater happiness; the education of youth and the provision of gainful employment as the nation's urgent

Attempted Murder Case Dismissed By Court Order

Julia Humeniuk, of Pathfinder, Alberta, Gains Freedom on Accusation She Tried Giving Husband Strychnine

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

VEGREVILLE, June 29.—Holding there was insufficient evidence to sustain a conviction, Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, in supreme court here, dismissed Mrs. Julia Humeniuk, Pathfinder district resident, on a charge of attempting to murder her husband, Mike Humeniuk, by strychnine poisoning.

The jurist held that while the circumstances were suspicious there was the possibility that the poison could have been placed in the milk by any one of three or four persons.

It was alleged by the Crown that Mrs. Humeniuk, when preparing lunch for her husband and his brother, placed a quantity of gopher poison in a kettle of milk. Paul Humeniuk, first to taste the milk, found it bitter and stopped his brother drinking it until they "tried it out on the dogs."

TWO DOGS DIE

Two of the dogs died and the third was ill for several days after drinking the mixture.

Chief evidence against the accused was submitted by Constable Stanton, Vegreville detachment, R.C.M.P., who submitted statements given him by the accused and other central figures in the affair.

PREPARED LUNCH

Julia Humeniuk, in her statement, affirmed that she had prepared lunch for her husband and his brother, denying she had put any gopher poison in their milk. She said a missing packet of gopher poison had been placed by her on a barn beam. She told of recurring quarrels with her husband over a man she knew in 1931, the last quarrel being on May 1, four days before the alleged poisoning attempt.

She also stated the first intimation of the attempt to poison her husband was from a man she and Nancy Humeniuk, wife of Paul Humeniuk, met as they returned from shopping at Myrnam. This person asked her if she had heard her husband had been nearly poisoned.

MEETING DENIED

The meeting with this man was denied by her sister-in-law, who also testified that the accused had returned three times to the house before leaving for Myrnam instead of twice as stated by the accused.

Denials of quarrels between husband and wife were given by the husband and his brother.

At the conclusion of the crown's case Neil D. Primrose, counsel for the accused, asked for dismissal of the case on the ground there was not sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction. Guy Patterson, K.C., Edmonton, prosecuted.

Showdown

tates much to the relief of many thousands of residents who had been herded into the streets at monotonous intervals and given little paper flags to wave.

Fed up with demonstrations, Berliners live in a serious but confident atmosphere that has led them to be ready for Der Fuehrer's next move either tomorrow or next month. Possibly never in six years of Nazi rule have they been more united behind Hitler than today as a result of the German press charges that Britain seeks to "encircle and destroy" the Reich.

Still different is the atmosphere of neighboring capitals, especially in Paris, where the government's persistent and energetic declarations that France is making great strides in national recovery and rearmament has created among the boulevardiers and the workmen alike an outward spirit of optimism mingled with unconcern over the prospects of war.

POLITICAL REFUGEES

Only in the little capitals is there hope of avoiding involvement if war comes. The tea tables before the American hotel in Amsterdam are crowded with political refugees from Germany, and the talk turns repeatedly to war, but the Dutch are confident that they can maintain their neutrality.

It is this contrast in attitude, with each capital fostering the idea that it is now strong enough to meet any emergency, that creates a complicated situation in which a minor mistake in judgment might precipitate a general conflict overnight.

The danger is that a bluff will be called or a mistake made in high places. Or that the people will become fed up with a situation that is sapping their economic power and force a showdown.

ORIGINAL ORDER

Terms of reference of the original order-in-council setting up the Canadian commission to work in concert with the American one had limited the survey to the road from British Columbia to the Yukon and Alaska, he said.

Amendment to the order-in-council, he added, had broadened the scope of the commission to permit of a survey being made if part of the road could feasibly go through Alberta territory.

"As I have not yet received the copy of the amended order," said Mr. Stewart, "I am not in a position to say just what the terms exactly are."

He said the order was now being forwarded to him, for his study.

CHAMBER'S BRIEF

Brief of the Chamber of Commerce submitted to Ottawa respecting the northern highway had caused interest at the capital, he said.

Thursday afternoon Mr. Stewart is meeting John Blue, C. H. Grant, K.C., J. Boyd McBride, K.C., and Ed. Ayling, all of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, for informal survey of the plans the Chamber had in view regarding the highway.

Members of the Canadian commission, in addition to Mr. Stewart, are Brig.-General T. L. Tremblay, Quebec; J. M. Wardle, department of mines and resources, Ottawa; Arthur Dixon, department of public works, Victoria; J. W. Spencer, Vancouver.

Mr. Wardle and Mr. Spencer, engineers, will conduct a survey by air of the proposed highway.

Two tentative routes have been proposed and are being studied. Route "A", he said, goes from Hazeltown, Telegraph Creek, Atlin, to Whitehorse, while Route "B" is from Prince George, Finlay River, Sifton Pass and over the headwaters of the Liard river.

U.S. BOARD

American commissioners consist of Warren G. ## Deportation

tion and six-month sentence on three charges of converting the proceeds of sale of three motor cars to his own use. The offences took place at St. Paul. He had previously been convicted in 1935 in Edmonton on a charge of passing worthless cheques. He was given a prison term for this offence.

An order for his deportation was issued at that time, but action was suspended when Karatew promised to return to his father's farm to work.

BRITISH SUBJECT

The present order is being attacked on the ground that it has been issued without jurisdiction. It is claimed that Karatew is a British subject, having been naturalized when his father took out citizenship in 1915, the boy being under 21 years of age, automatically becoming naturalized.

Hearing of the habeas corpus application is made returnable for July 12.

ANOTHER GRAVE CRISIS LOOMS CURTIS SAYS

Poland Will Fight If Reich Tries To Annex Danzig

By EDWIN JOHNSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 29—Lionel Curtis of the Institute of International Affairs told the Empire Press Union Conference today he believed Europe would see in August a more dangerous crisis than in September, 1938, and urged newsmen to "guard against the fact that expressions of temperate and constructive opinion seldom are as good copy as pungent, destructive criticism."

"I make these frank remarks because I believe we are now on the eve of another such crisis. I believe that in August when parliament rises the world will be faced by another and even more dangerous crisis. If the Reich claims to annex Danzig as it claimed to annex the Sudetendeutsch, Poland will fight and then we shall fight as we fought over Belgium in 1914."

FULL SUPPORT

James Dillon, member of the parliament of Eire, said he was "convinced that if at this moment an assault were made on Britain, the object of which was to destroy those things in the world for which she at present stands, there would be no part in the commonwealth in this hemisphere or the other which would not support her and to all that lay within their power to help her in that hour of crisis."

Mr. Curtis said that during and after the September crisis British foreign policy had been widely condemned in the Dominions and the United States and that he noticed cables from London of speeches and articles attacking British policy occupied more space and were given greater prominence than speeches and articles defending that policy.

NO POLITICAL MOTIVES

"Speeches and articles attacking the British government during the great crisis were far more arresting than speeches and articles uttered in their defence." He said correspondents had no sinister political motives but were just doing their jobs as they had been trained to do them.

"At this 11th hour I plead with you who employ the men who will select and cable the news you publish overseas to be on watch against the inevitable tendency of their training and profession. I beg you to ask them to do their best to select the news they cable less for its striking quality than for its intrinsic importance. Guard against the fact that expressions of temperate and constructive opinion seldom are as good copy as pungent and destructive criticism," he said.

W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and president of The Canadian Press, urged that responsible editors should be afforded official information of importance, particularly in times of emergency.

Sir Thomas Inskip, secretary of state for the dominions, referred to a suggestion that there should be private conversations between dominion newsmen and himself, saying that "if anyone thinks it useful, I should only be too happy to place myself at their disposal." He added that a "well-informed and instructed public opinion is the best foundation of good government."

Miss MacPhail May Be Named To Commission

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 29—The inclusion of Miss Agnes MacPhail as one of the three members of the new Penitentiaries commission is said to be under consideration. Miss MacPhail has been one of the leading critics of the former system, and her inclusion on the board would not only give the board the advantage of the studies she has made of the system but would also put a woman on the board, there being an active demand that women should be represented, although women are few in Canadian penitentiaries.

HITLER GIVEN FULL WARNING BY CHURCHILL

British Leader Predicts Summer Of Extreme Tension

LONDON, June 29.—Winston Churchill, one of the first British leaders to sound alarm over Germany's secret rearmament, yesterday predicated a summer of tension and cautioned Chancellor Hitler to pause and "consider well before you take the plunge into the terrible unknown."

Britain's wartime First Lord of the Admiralty echoed the forecast of crisis made in Paris yesterday by Premier Edouard Daladier.

"I am in a position to know that a state of extreme vigilance is prescribed in many of our defence forces—particularly our air defence forces," Mr. Churchill declared, and added "after all, the harvest is not so far off."

AT LUNCHEON

Mr. Churchill aired his views in a luncheon speech before the city Carlton Club.

"If one were to consider," he said, "only the German preparations, the tone of their government-controlled press and the speeches of their party leaders, there could be no conclusion possible but that the worst would happen and happen quite soon.

IN ACCORD

"I am in entire accord with the French Prime Minister that we are in a period of danger more acute and more laden with ugly facts than any which we have known in the hard disturbed period through which we have lived our lives."

Mr. Churchill called for a "full and solid alliance" with Russia "without further delay."

HALIFAX WARNS OF BRITAIN'S ARMED MIGHT

He referred to Britain's "unchallengable navy," her air force which "now has nothing to fear from any other," her small but powerful army which cannot be derided as in the past—all dedicated to the preservation of "our own liberty and that of other peoples."

Behind these armed forces was a united country and abundant evidence the people's will was supporting the driving national effort.

FALSITY RESENTED

Lord Halifax referred to efforts made abroad to ridicule, to minimize and misrepresent British efforts to preserve peace.

"We read mischievous misrepresentations of our actions and motives which some people in countries holding a different national philosophy from our own think fit to make," he said.

"We read them with resentment, knowing they are false, knowing those who make them know it too. These things do not pass unnoticed here nor, I may say, do provocative insults offered to our fellow-countrymen further afield.

"I can say at once that Britain is not prepared to yield either to calumnies or force. It may afford some satisfaction to those who have pronounced our nation to be decadent, to learn they themselves have found a cure—the one most effective.

"Every insult that is offered to our people, every rude challenge that is made to what we value and are determined to defend, only unites us and increases our determination, and strengthens our loyalty to those others who share our feelings and aspirations."

Lord Halifax repeated that Britain's first resolve is to stop aggression. That was the primary reason, he said, why Britain gave military pledges throughout Europe which caused Germany to shout encirclement.

REJECT FORCE

The foreign secretary, turning to Germany's claim for "Lebensraum" or "living space", said that if by this the Reich means it gives her the right to conquer smaller and weaker neighbors "we reject it and must reject its application." But if Germany meant by "Lebensraum" to expand her trade influence by negotiation and co-operation, Britain was willing to meet her halfway.

Reviewing British colonial policy, Lord Halifax indicated that its ultimate objective is to give the colonies self-government. His reference to this point was taken as designed to impress Chancellor Hitler with the fact that Britain is not willing to negotiate over Germany's war-lost colonies until the doctrine of force is abandoned, armaments are reduced and the efforts to stir up envy and malice forsaken.

At the same time Lord Halifax said that whatever were the difficulties arising from the colonial question "I would not despair of finding ways of settlement once everybody has got the will to settle.

"But unless all countries do in fact desire a settlement, discussion would only do more harm than good.

"It is, moreover, impossible to negotiate with a country whose responsible spokesmen brand a friendly country as thieves and blackmailers, and indulge in daily monstrous slanders on British policy in all parts of the world."

Election

situation in Europe and Asia cleared up before launching the country into an election campaign.

"Should the situation develop seriously or critically we may have to have a special session of parliament.

"I hope and pray," added the Prime Minister, "that it may not be necessary. As it is there is everything for the country to gain and nothing to lose by waiting a few months before considering a general election.

"I don't say we won't have an election and I don't say we will," he added smiling. He referred to Premier Daladier's statement and added: "That is one of the things I have in mind. If after reading that statement I were to say we were to have an election the people of Canada would say Mr. King has not given much thought to the international situation."

NOT TO TRY OTTAWA

The suggestion having been made in an Ottawa newspaper that an acclamation be given Mr. King in West Ottawa the Prime Minister was asked if he would consider it. He smiled and said: "I think I will probably not try to run in Ottawa."

The Prime Minister's statement with respect to the prospects of a general election is the most frank he has made on the subject. It was not a prepared statement but was made informally in answer to questions by press men.

Among the domestic matters he had in mind as having to be cleared up by the cabinet are the implementation of the government's wheat assistance program; the war contracts matter, the numerous appointments to be made.

NEW CHAIRMAN NEEDED

The Defence Purchasing Board and the new Penitentiaries Commission have still to be appointed and set to work. A new chairman is needed for the Tariff Board. There are a number of judges to be appointed, senatorships and other offices.

Analysis of his statements leave the impression that in the normal course of events there will be a general election; but if the international situation continues to be serious, the government will not take the chance of leaving the country without a government should war break out.

If a general election is called, parliament is dissolved. The ministers carry on with their portfolios pending the result of the election and the calling of a Prime Minister by the Governor-General. In the interregnum there is no parliament and both major political parties are pledged to call parliament in the event of any war in which Canada might become involved.

A sudden outbreak of war involving Great Britain would need Canada's immediate response, and the Prime Minister does not intend that the Dominion shall be caught without a parliament in time of national emergency. The Governor-General-in-Council can take action but serious action needs ratification by parliament within 10 days, and it takes longer than that to elect a new parliament.

POLAND PLANS TO DEFEND HER OUTLET TO SEA

President Moscicki Declares Nation Determined to Keep Pomorze

WARSAW, June 29.—President Ignace Moscicki, in a broadcast speech climaxing Poland's naval week, today declared the nation's war-won seacoast and Pomorze, the Polish corridor, were the "air and sun of our existence as a state."

He proclaimed Poland's determination to keep her outlets to the sea no matter how great her adversary or how heavy the outside pressure.

"In the traditional naval week every year," the president said, "the thoughts and sentiments of all Poland concentrate on the sea coast, of all our frontiers the shortest yet most important sector because three-quarters of our foreign trade passes through it.

"That is why the ports of Gdynia (in Poland, at the head of the Polish corridor) and Danzig (which Germany wants returned to the Reich) have such exceptionally great significance for our national economy.

"Pomorze and the seacoast are the basic elements of our economic and political independence."

HUNTED KILLER SHOT TO DEATH BY POSSEMEN

Olson lived about 10 minutes. Before death, he admitted the shooting of the deputies, Carl Johnson and Fred Scott of Hayward, and told the officers his wife was in no way connected with his law breaking.

New Zealand's Plan Build Military Planes Approved in England

LONDON, June 29.—Air secretary Sir Kingsley Wood last night told the House of Commons the government of New Zealand was in "complete agreement" with the United Kingdom government on plans to build military airplanes in the Dominion.

The air secretary said that endorsement of the plans by the Wellington government will be "a most valuable contribution to imperial defence."

The air mission which visited Australia and New Zealand to examine their aircraft production capacity had urged two steps which the New Zealand government decided to implement, he said.

These were:

1—The Wellington government should place an immediate order for training planes to be manufactured in New Zealand by the De Havilland company which will enable the company to proceed at once with an establishment of an aircraft factory in the Dominion.

2—The New Zealand government established further flying and training facilities with the purpose of adding to the number of Royal Air Force pilots in the empire.

DISALLOWANCE ALBERTA ACTS IS REQUESTED

Action Taken By Associated Boards Of Trade At Red Deer

RED DEER, Alta., June 29—About 60 delegates at the Alberta Associated Boards of Trade second annual meeting here Wednesday approved resolutions urging the Dominion government to disallow the Alberta Limitations of Actions act, amended in 1938, the Alberta Judicature Amended act, and the Alberta Land Titles Amended act.

Another resolution asked the Alberta government to reconsider the Alberta Livestock Marketing act and either to rescind it or revise it so that it would not work against freedom of producers in their marketing. The request also asked the government to delay putting the act into force until other Alberta organizations made representations.

DELEGATES

Delegates represented chambers of commerce and boards of trade at Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin, Drumheller, High River, Vegreville, Camrose and other centres.

J. B. Holden, mayor of Vegreville, and president of the province-wide organization, presided.

Principal speakers on the topic of legislation passed by the Alberta government were: C. J. Ford, K.C., C. H. Grant, and Dr. W. A. Lincoln, all of Calgary; Frank P. Layton, Camrose; J. B. McBride, K.C., Edmonton; W. T. Hill, Lethbridge, and A. Craig Pierce, prominent Drumheller farmer.

FIRE INSURANCE

A committee was appointed to study possible fire insurance legislation which the Associated Boards of Trade will consider at its next meeting, tentatively planned for October. Mr. Layton, A. R. Hobkirk, Red Deer, and Percy Herring, of Edmonton, were named as the study committee.

British Reply

hostile to Germany," Britain answered:

"Great Britain could only be hostile to Germany if Germany were to commit an act of aggression against another country; and the political decisions to which it is understood the German government refer in their memorandum, involving guarantees by Great Britain to certain countries, could only operate if the countries concerned were to be attacked by Germany."

The naval agreement was denounced by Hitler last April 27 during a lengthy address in which he explained Germany's occupation of Bohemia and Moravia and also condemned Britain's non-aggression moves on the continent.

The note further warned Berlin estimates as to future naval tonnage should be disregarded in view of cancellation of the treaty.

WILLING TO NEGOTIATE

It indicated Britain is willing to negotiate a new naval agreement, but asked what assurances Berlin could give that such a pact would not be scrapped as summarily as the 1935 agreement.

"It is not the case that in whatever part of Europe Germany might be involved in warlike conflict, Britain must always take up an attitude hostile to Germany," the note said, answering one of Hitler's statements.

After pointing out Britain would be hostile to the Reich only in cases of overt acts of aggression against another country, and where the United Kingdom has given guarantees to those countries, the note added that the London government had had no desire to restrict German trade.

MUTUAL CONFIDENCE

"His Majesty's government would look forward to further discussion of measures for the improvement of Germany's economic position if only the essential pre-condition could be secured, namely, the establishment of mutual confidence and goodwill which is a necessary preliminary to calm, unprejudiced negotiation," said the note.

In the 1935 pact Germany agreed to limit her total naval tonnage to 35 per cent. of Britain's.

The note advised Germany that Great Britain would be glad to receive indication of the scope and purpose of any other agreement the Reich wished to negotiate to replace the provisions of the previous treaty.

Germans Call Note Typical English Humbug

BERLIN, June 29.—The Deutscher Dienst, a special service of the official German News Agency, last night called the British memorandum to Germany on an Anglo-German naval treaty "a typical example of English humbug."

The service said the note "attempted to show that the pre-condition of the 35 per cent limitation of the German fleet does not exclude every possibility of war between England and Germany, but only the intention to contribute to a limitation of arms."

This was incorrect, the service said, because Chancellor Hitler in his Reichstag speech of May 21, 1935, offered to limit the German fleet to 35 per cent of the British "under the explicit reference to the wish and conviction that for all future time a war between England and Germany would be made impossible."

WARDEN LAUDS GREAT BRAVERY WOMAN SHOWS

Fair Heroine Held for Two Hours By Desperate Convicts

United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 29—Warden Alfred H. Dowd of the Indiana state prison praised as a heroine Wednesday, a slim, brunette social worker whose life he unwillingly gambled Tuesday rather than give "guns and freedom" to three desperate convicts.

She is Mrs. Ruth Joiner, 25, attractive divorcee and mother of a three-year-old daughter, who for two harrowing hours—a knife at her throat—was held prisoner in a penitentiary office Tuesday by a murderer, a kidnapper and a robber. The convicts demanded their release, guns and an automobile as the price for her life.

Dowd, faced with one of the gravest decisions of his term, calmly talked to the desperadoes, conferred with state troopers and decided not to bargain. Guards and state police stormed the office with guns and tear gas, thwarted the life-or-death outbreak, and rescued Mrs. Joiner.

WOMAN WOUNDED

She and six others, including the convicts were wounded before the outbreak was quelled. Today she lay in St. Anthony's hospital where Dr. L. E. Stephenson reported she was slightly improved and that it would not be necessary to amputate her arm. She was shot in the shoulder and for a time it was feared that her arm might be lost.

Mrs. Joiner, a state parole agent from Crawfordsville, was suffering from shock, in addition to her wound. Calmed by a sedative she told, through her physician, how the convicts seized her.

"One of the men took me by the arm, and said, 'Right this way, lady.' I didn't realize anything was wrong. I thought it was part of the tour.

"I walked into the office and was bewildered when they started to close the door. Then I saw one convict lash out with a knife at the guard.

HER INTUITION

"Intuition told me not to go to pieces because I knew they meant business. I was frightened but didn't scream. Then they called the warden and made me talk to him. They kept threatening me. One would pull my head back by the hair and run the knife lightly across my throat.

"'That's what we'll do if you don't get guns for us,' one said.

"I talked to the warden and told him that they would kill me unless he gave them guns, a car and freedom. I pleaded with them and told them I had a little girl who needed me and they told me to tell that to the warden.

"It was a terrible, horrible experience."

"Something should be done with those men who preach the 'isms' here," Chief Taylor said. "There should be an interment camp for those corrupting the youth of our country, preaching revolution."

The Chief said imprisonment of 100 or so such offenders would have a salutary effect on agitators.

BATA COMPANY MUST EMPLOY ALL CANADIANS

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 29—The Bata Shoe company of Czecho-Slovakia may establish a plant in Canada, but must use Canadian workmen.

The prime minister made that clear last night. He indicated that new industry and new capital were welcome in Canada but where labor is available in Canada it must be employed.

The company will be allowed to bring in its key men if there are not competent men of this type available in Canada, but it will not be allowed to bring in ordinary skilled or unskilled labor to the detriment of Canadians.

To make sure that Canadian labor is not displaced directly or indirectly the company will be required to obtain permits for the entry of the key men it wants to bring in.

The ministry of immigration will turn the list over to the ministry of labor, whose officials will ascertain if competent men in this line are available in Canada. If they are then the company will not be allowed to bring in its own men, but must give employment to the Canadians.

MANUFACTURERS WILL BE GIVEN ALL ASSISTANCE

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 29—Canadian manufacturers seeking British contracts will be given every assistance by the Dominion government.

The government, however, will not negotiate British contracts nor deal with them. Such contracts must be sought and acquired by the Canadian manufacturers themselves.

The prime minister Wednesday, definitely repudiated the charge made at the Canadian Manufacturers' association and elsewhere that the Dominion government was averse to British contracts being given to Canadians.

On the contrary, Mr. King stated, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to London, had been instructed to give Canadian manufacturers seeking British contracts every assistance.

PORT PERRY, Ont., June 29.—James K. Lawrence will be the proudest man at the christening here July 1 of a new space-killing device which looks like a wingless airplane and is designed to travel over snow and ice or in the water.

Rev. Robert Simpson of Port Perry Presbyterian church will officiate at the ceremony, during which the amphibian machine will be named "Northern Star". Federal transport department officials will inspect the invention following the ceremony.

The composite machine holds four passengers, connected by telephone with the pilot who sits in a higher compartment. The cabin is air-conditioned and the steering mechanism is a drag behind each of the two floats.

Assures Manufacturers Government in Favor of Getting British Orders

OTTAWA, June 29. — Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a deputation from the Canadian Manufacturers Association Wednesday the government will assist them in every possible way in obtaining information on British armament and munition requirements and orders from the British government.

He assured them the government had no objection to a group of manufacturers experienced in engineering production going to England for the purpose and would lend them the offices of the Canadian high commissioner in London and the assistance of one of the technical officers of the national defence department.

While making clear the government welcomed orders to Canadian manufacturers from the British government Mr. King also told the deputation the government would not act as an agent either for the manufacturers or the British government. All contracts had to be made between the British authorities and the manufacturers themselves.

"Our attitude has always been to welcome all the industrial development we can further in this country," said Mr. King. "The British government has been informed repeatedly and in writing that British orders were welcome."

Members of the deputation referred to a rumor to the effect the government was not in favor of orders for war material being placed in Canada but Mr. King told them there was no basis for that.

Most of the delegates making the 20-mile trip to the glacier lying at the foot of Mount Edith Cavell were from the United States.

A luncheon for the delegates was tendered yesterday by the Calgary Gyro Club.

As in the men's golf competition Tuesday, a low score deadlock came Wednesday in women's play. Mrs. Ralph Pittman of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. A. S. Underhill of Kelowna, B.C., are to meet in the playoff Thursday.

The men's international Gyro golf championship went to the United States when R. M. Jones of Milwaukee was proclaimed champion with his low net score of 69.

★ The greatness of Canada and the scope of her influence depend on the co-operation and unity of all the Provinces. Alone, they are separate Provinces: united, they are a proud Dominion.

Here was established the first representative government in Canada, 1758. Halifax has one of the world's finest and safest harbours, and for long was a stronghold of Britain's ships and soldiers. Here were the first post office and the first printing plant in British North America. A centre of old and new world culture: sending many wise men westward to influence Canadian thinking. Today, one of Canada's gateways to the Empire and world. Nova Scotia's notable race of deep-sea fishermen, doughty, hardy, add to National as well as Provincial wealth. With her fisheries consider also her apple orchards, set in heavenly valleys, her intrepid Cape Breton miners, bringing out from under the waves of the Atlantic great treasure; her forestry, her agriculture: for with these activities she produces more than $160,000,000 a year, and exports over a million and a quarter tons of these products for the enrichment of herself and her sister provinces.

Long a favourite summer resort, she values and yearly enhances her reputation for gracious hospitality to those who come to visit the Land of Evangeline and of Romance. She has nearly 15,000 miles of roads used by tourists and her own 50,000 cars.

A part of the Eastern frontier, she gains security by her affiliation with her sister provinces, united under the protection of the Dominion. Ask us for Facts and Figures concerning the Automotive Industries and the work they are doing in Canada, and we will send them.

BUILDING CANADIAN MOTOR CARS is a National Enterprise

Probably no other single agent has changed the lives of so many people, pushed back so many horizons or brought common understanding to so many sectional problems as has the Automotive Industry. It has created new opportunities, new employment in every Province. Through its payrolls of the Parts, Steel, Paint, Textile, Glass, Rubber and other industries dependent on it, it has created stable and profitable markets for the products of the farm, the mine, the fisheries and the forest. The money it puts in circulation reaches every corner of Canada: a truly inter-Provincial enterprise, National in purpose and National in scope. ●When you buy a Canadian-built car you help your own Province as well as Canada as a whole.

The New Federal Building

Consent of the city council to sell the Dominion Government three lots on 100th Street clears the way for the erection of the proposed federal office building, at an estimated cost of $450,000 to $500,000. The assessed value of the land is $2,100 more than the sale price, but as no one bought the property for the assessed rating, the sale price probably represents as much as could be got for it.

The lots are owned by the city, and while the new building will not be taxable the sale does not mean a loss of tax-revenue. This is for the city a distinct advantage, since had the Government bought privately-owned lots these would have been cut off the tax list and the city treasury would be out the amount of the taxes payable by the owners.

The erection of the planned building will be an important addition to the amount of employment available to builders, and bring a worth while increase of orders to supply houses. Its construction will add another to the already imposing array of public and private buildings along this street, and the housing of the Government offices under one roof will be a convenience to those having business to transact with any of the departments.

An Overdraft An Asset?

Montreal may sue three banks, because they said they wouldn't lend the city any more money until it cut down its $40,000,000 overdraft. In fact what the bankers seemed to mean was that the city should be paying what it had already borrowed, instead of trying to borrow more. The city's lawyers will argue that this damaged the credit of the city, to such an extent that the banks should pay it—and them—$2,000,000 as compensation.

No one can tell how a law-suit will come out. But should the city win this case, there is a prospect of busy times in the courts and overtime work for the lawyers of the land. There must be a good many city councils in Canada which during the last nine years have been told substantially what the Montreal council was told, to say nothing of a million or so private citizens who have received similar unwelcome suggestions from their bankers. All of which and whom no doubt feel like the Montreal aldermen, and are equally willing to be compensated.

If the rule should be established that a banker cannot refuse a loan because the would-be borrower already has an overdraft and isn't doing anything about it, the impulse to acquire overdrafts will spread into the proportions of a nation-wide ambition; but the chances to acquire one will be sadly dimmed.

Is an overdraft an asset? That seems to be the point in dispute.

To Europe Via Canada

A Trans-Atlantic air mail service is now "in being". On Tuesday the Yankee Clipper got away from Newfoundland, after a three-day delay due to bad weather, en route to Southampton via Foynes, on the first scheduled flight between the continents. Regular flights will be made weekly in both directions, and the carrying of passengers is due to begin shortly.

When later in the summer T.C.A. planes extend their runs to Moncton, Edmonton will be within three days of London if close connections are made with the ocean fliers. It may be possible a few months hence to write a letter in Edmonton and receive an answer from a London correspondent within a week—or to make the round trip in the same time if anyone feels disposed to do so.

This faintly suggests the effect the new service promises to have in speeding up business transactions between people living in North America and people living in Europe, and the closer social relations also made possible and encouraged. The Trans-Atlantic planes will form connecting links between the net-works of airlines in both continents, hitherto separated by two thousand miles of water traversed only by steamships and motor vessels.

It is noteworthy that, after a thorough testing of the southern route by way of the Azores, every alternate Trans-Atlantic plane is to take the "direct" route from Newfoundland to Ireland. Though more subject to unfavorable weather, this route is the shorter, while it has the additional advantage of contacting both United States and Canadian airlines. Canada's strategic position in relation to Trans-Atlantic air travel and transport is a geographical asset of great potential importance.

Another War on Hand

Whoever started it, and whatever precisely it is about, the official announcers at Tokyo and Moscow are admitting that the fighting along the Mongol border is something more serious than the sporadic skirmishes which have been occurring for years along the borders of Siberia and Japan's puppet state of Manchukuo. What may be supposed to be involved basically is the question of control of the vast and semi-desert region that separates China proper from Russia's Asiatic territory.

That is the area in which Jenghiz Khan in the twelfth century mustered the armies with which he over-ran most of Asia and eastern Europe. The events are brought into association by the report a week or so ago that the bones of Jenghiz had been carried from his tomb in Mongolia for interment in a Chinese inland city, to prevent them falling into possession of the Japanese and being used by them to stir up pro-Japanese sentiment among the superstitious descendants of his subjects.

Mongolia is about as completely isolated as it was in Jenghiz' day, witness the fact that a little war has been raging for nearly two months with scarcely a rumor reaching the newspaper readers of the world. Of course the Russian and Japanese war departments knew the fighting was going on, but for reasons of their own did not relay the information. Now that they are telling the world about it, the conflicting reports are rich in variety to the point of obscuring facts. Each official agency seems to be well posted on the losses sustained by the enemy, but singularly unaware of damage done to its own side.

Which illustrates the advantage of staging a war in an area far removed from neutral observers; but does not hide the fact that this new entanglement may cramp Japan's efforts to bring the conquest of China to a speedy end.

Lethbridge will buy two Diesel-engined busses, to replace street cars on one line. The street car has done splendid service for a half century in supplying transportation in cities, but it is surely and not slowly being replaced by bus type conveyances, some self-propelled and some drawing electric power from cables. Chiefly, it may be thought, because the steel wheels running on steel rails make too much noise.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The Canadian people have taught the English how to cheer their King and Queen. Having heard over the ether the vociferous welcomes accorded to Their Majesties wherever they appeared on this continent, they gave them a demonstrative home-coming. The visit to Canada and United States has quickened the affection of the people of England for their Monarchs, as well as the affection of the people of United States and Canada.

TEACHING THEM HOW TO CHEER

This is another triumph for the radio. Radio cannot equal the value of the daily newspaper for the presentation of matter requiring reflection. People who hear speeches over the radio need to see them printed before they can extract all the full quality of them. But for bringing demonstrations of sound and spirit that eludes portrayal in print, the radio is supreme.

This quality brings with it a danger. Oratory, once called the queen of the arts, is now, says Bertrand Russell, the great public danger. Glib talkers over the ether, dealing pontifically with things they don't understand, and using the protection from questioning that the radio speaker enjoys to make the radio station a coward's castle and a nincompoop's throne, can influence ignorant folk in a manner that would be impossible if questioning were permitted.

Taken all in all, the radio announcers did well. Most of them lacked the easy flow of cumulative effect that an experienced speaker acquires—even a stump speaker trusting to successful extemporization. It's painful to listen to an announcer who breaks the flow of thought by pauses in the wrong places. The bigger broadcasting companies who can afford to pay ample salaries to executives, ought to be able to command a supply of announcers who could describe moving spectacles with an easy flow of description, without haltings and repetitions.

THE GENTLE ART OF "ANNOUNCING"

The English announcers did much better in this aspect of their work, but lacked the "oomph" and near hysteria of the Canadian and American announcers, who, whatever they lacked in other respects, put their stuff across with vim, as if it was a matter of deep importance, like a hockey match or a baseball game.

Perhaps by the time this appears in print, Britain will have taken some active steps to re-assert her injured prestige in China. The Japanese mind is different from our own. It retains the stamp of the feudal in its sense of wounded pride. At a 24-course tete-a-tete Japanese dinner with a prominent Japanese official some years ago, the conversation wandered to the different ideals in sex conduct in the Occident and the Orient. The Baron had been entertained in society circles in Vancouver. A scandal in the divorce court was being aired. Said he: "I do not understand. In my country a young girl before she is married is free to do what she will. After marriage she belongs to her husband alone. Here (it was in Vancouver) it seems that it is a great crime before marriage, but after she is married she may have many men friends. I do not understand."

THE SAMURAI WAY OF IT

"What would happen," I asked, "if a case like the . . . case occurred in Japan?"

"It could not happen in Japan," he reported.

"But human nature is human nature," I argued. "Have I not read in the Manyo Shu of a princess with a lover?"

"The Manyo Shu is from the eighth century. It may have happened in a few historical cases, but never in my knowledge."

"What would happen if such a case arose?"

The Baron made prompt reply. "The husband would have to do hari-kari (a ceremonial self-disembowelment) to wipe out the shame."

* * *

Japan may be working by arrangement with the Berlin-Rome axis powers. She may interpret the betrayal of Spain and the surrender of Czecho-Slovakia as signs of weakness. She may regard the $8,000,000 order by the British brokers for Japanese salmon, while B.C. canners have a carry-over of 120,000 cases from last year, as more Chamberlain "appeasement." Odds are, she well understands that Spain was betrayed for fear lest the British masses demand more freedom, and the salmon order was given because of the larger profit to be made from salmon caught and packed by cheap Japanese labor. And of course, the $8,000,000 will not be paid in cash but in munitions to help Japan slay and ravage the Chinese.

MAY WANT TO DO "HARI-KARI"

Knowing the Japanese instinct for hari-kari in the face of shame, it may well be that rather than acknowledge failure of the Chinese adventure, she prefers hari-kari by withdrawal before superior British, American and French naval forces.

OUR ROCK-BASED CABIN

I never realized how much there is in the Saviour's parable of the two houses, built on the rock and on the sand, until we began to erect our log cabin on a Canadian lake. Our point of land is solid granite. So all sorts of difficulties arose, in rock removal and in the building of additional rock pillars to find a level.

Anybody who builds a house on the rock is in for a lot of labor. It is far easier to drive a few supporting timbers into sand.

Therein lies an essential difference between the two kinds of lives pictured by Jesus. One represents the cheap and easy way, which cannot withstand storms; the other is costlier and more difficult, but the resultant structure stands. A hundred years from now the grandchildren of some present reader may visit our grandchildren, and find our cabin standing without a tremor in it.

Help us, our Father, to take pains in building for eternity. Give us the vision to toil and pray for a life surely founded. Amen.

Read Matthew 7:24-29.

"It is the mixing of the old with the new that makes for a powerful city or nation."—King George VI.

Current Comment

Czech Resistance

Reports from Bohemia and Moravia, formerly part of Czecho-Slovakia, have told of a rather intense undercover conflict going on in that country since Hitler took it over. The Czechs do not take to subservience readily.

A few incidents, such as the shooting of German policemen, have come through in ordinary news dispatches. In addition, unofficial comments of observers have been that the Czechs are carrying on a passive resistance, have slowed down their work in factories, get ill frequently, and generally have lost much of their former notable efficiency. However, it seems that German officials have to be extraordinarily careful or they may come to damage unexpectedly.

The extreme steps taken by German authorities when a policeman was shot suggests that the reports are fully correct.

Now, further evidence of Czech resistance is available. Thousands of Czechs have crossed into Poland and are enlisting in the Polish army in a Czech legion. Twenty-five years ago there was a Czech legion which made a name for itself in the war. Indeed, it fought its way across half of Europe, through Russia and right out to Vladivostok. Now it is being reorganized in Poland.

The chances are that more will be heard of it in the future.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

The Language of Heroes

A changing tradition in the manners and speech of world figures is noted by the diligent "New Republic." In the early days of America, it recalls, a man like Patrick Henry could regret that he had only one life to give for his country—a sentiment, however, noble, which would sound a little overstuffed in this practical age. Too emotional also for our era the tender dying words of Nelson—"Kiss me, Hardy, ere I die."

More in the spirit of this brisk, blunt time was Lindbergh's greeting to Paris when he stepped out of his plane at Le Bourget field. Said he: "I am Charles A. Lindbergh." That was clipped enough for anybody. Then came the ineffable Corrigan who landed in Ireland, en route to California, and stated: "I got headed the wrong way."

But the New Republic thinks that the trend toward stoic simplicity recently reached a magnificent peak when Robert Galligan, a bootleg coal miner in Pennsylvania, became trapped for three days at the bottom of a caved-in shaft. The rescue squad dug feverishly to within four feet of him and forced through a length of pipe. "Galligan," they shouted, "how are you?" Said Galligan: "Okay. How are you?"

The United States has travelled a long way from the fine periods of Patrick Henry.

Now we can add to the list of famous sayings, and in the very best tradition of robust American democracy, President Roosevelt's greeting to the King in Washington. Said he: "How are you? I'm glad to see you."

Thus did the country which fought George III welcome George VI. It lacks the polish of the old Georgian age but it has the great advantage of meaning just what it says. Mr. Roosevelt was glad to see the King and he said so. And probably no American President has said anything more important to the world.—Vancouver Sun.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Thirty years ago today (June 29, 1909) there was unveiled a monument which is a sort of mecca for Methodists (in Canada, now United church members) because it is a tribute to the life and work of Barbara Heck who was the founder of Methodism in both New York and Upper Canada. It is in the Blue Church burying ground in Augusta township, in Gr[illegible] county, Ontario, one of the oldest cemeteries in Upper Canada. The monument, erected by public subscription in both Canada and the States, is 20 feet in height, and the inscription reads:

BARBARA HECK
Born, 1734. Died Aug. 17, 1804.

"Babara Heck put her brave soul against the rugged possibilities of the future, and, under God, brought into existence American and Canadian Methodism, and between them her memory will ever form a most hallowed link.

"In memory of one who laid foundations others have built upon."

Barbara Heck also lives amongst the leaders of the Loyalists of Upper Canada. Of Irish birth she and her family came to New York where she was instrumental in the building of Wesley chapel, the first Methodist meeting house in America, but when the revolution came her family could not forswear its allegiance and made their way to the eastern townships, via Lake Champlain.

Her husband, Paul, joined the British army, serving until the end of the war. Then in 1784 the Heck family decided to "go to the upper country," and soon after reaching "Loyalist Land" began cutting a home out of the wilderness. One of their first acts was to form a Methodist society, out of which evolved the great Methodist church of Canada.

The life and faith of this notable woman can be summed up in the answer she gave when she and her husband were asked to join the rebels in New York:

"The service that we love is no bondage, but truest liberty; we have under the old flag, beneath which we were born, all the rights we want, the right to worship God according to the dictates of our conscience, none daring to molest or make us afraid."

Should you ever be motoring along the highway from Toronto to Montreal stop at Maitland and ask to be shown the monument of Barbara Heck, who gave up home and comfort in order to do her duty to her God and to her sovereign.

Should Hear More

Editor, Bulletin: C. G. S. Baronsfeather, M.D., wrote a letter published June 24th, "the cancer riddle solved" and concluded his letter by saying he nursed his dying father through the horrible plague. Seems to be a contradiction there.

Mother nature may be indifferent to big business, but big business is not indifferent to mother nature. Indifference lies in the individual, and the solution must begin on each individual, not on a multitude. All conquests take years of experimenting, eliminating cause and effect—the result comes in due time. Until we know the cause there can be no cure. I am sure if money had any relation to the cure of cancer there would be ample donations. Let us hear more Dr. Baronsfeather.

Moral Re-Armament

Editor Bulletin: Fourteen British M.P.'s, representing both Government and Opposition parties in the House of Commons, have issued a letter to the national and provincial press of Great Britain calling attention, in connection with the recent visit of the King and Queen, to the influence of Moral Re-Armament on Anglo-American relations. The letter reads as follows:

In these days when community ideals between nations offers the greatest hope of peace for the world, it may interest your many readers to know of a recent interchange of messages between Washington and Westminster. On June 4th we, among 240 Members of Parliament, simultaneously with a distinguished group from the House of Lords, sent messages to the Moral Re-Armament Assembly at Washington. In the message we said: 'Only if founded on moral and spiritual re-armament can democracy fulfil its promise to mankind and perform its part in creating a mutual understanding between nations and restoring peace to the world.'

In reply we received a message signed by William Bankhead, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Senator A. W. Barkley of

LLOYDMINSTER

LIQUID METHANE PLANT MAY OPEN

Speaking before the executive of the Lloydminster Board of Trade at a special meeting, Lt.-Col. Arnold of Saskatoon stated that the chemists and engineers of the A. C. Chemical Company, which he was representing, had evolved a process whereby they could produce a liquid methane fuel at a very low cost figure from the natural gas such as was obtained in the Lloydminster field. Present production in their pilot plant at Saskatoon, built for experimental purposes, was obtained from coal gas which was much inferior to the natural gas of the Lloydminster field, he stated.

Col. Arnold stated that his company would shortly be prepared to proceed with commercial production of the liquid methane and he was desirous of looking into the possibilities of the erection of a plant close to Lloydminster and using the present available supplies of natural gas.

Benefit of this liquid methane, the speaker said, was the economical production of wheat that would enable the farmers of western Canada to compete in the present highly competitive markets of the world.

Legal difficulties that have been an obstacle in the approval of the proposed water works scheme for the town of Lloydminster, caused by the town being situated on the boundary separating Saskatchewan from Alberta have been ironed out, and the Mayor, V. U. Miner, K.C. is expecting the approval of the scheme from Ottawa shortly.

Cliff Taylor, prominent farmer of the Blackfoot district, was appointed president of the Lloydminster Agricultural Co-operative Association at the recent re-organization meeting of the association recently. T. S. Rackham, another prominent farmer of Lloydminster, was appointed vice-president, and Col. B. Laws, retiring president, made up the third member of the executive.

Packed Meeting Hears Proposed Water Scheme

The town hall here was packed to capacity Monday night when the proposed water and sewage system was thoroughly explained and discussed.

Mayor N. W. Nelson presided and introduced the speakers, which included Doctor M. Graham, medical health officer; Geo. E. Bowker; J. C. Matheson, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Councillors M. Green, A. Lux, T. Severson, R. Jones and E. Finkle.

The vote will be held Thursday, June 29, and if it carries the work will be given to local men and will start immediately.

The estimated cost is $116,000 and this will be borrowed from the Dominion Government at two per cent interest.

BASHAW

Plans for the building of a new school at Ellice were discussed at a special meeting of the school trustees held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. De Leenw. It was decided at the meeting that the annual school picnic would be held July 7.

The British-American Oil company will build large underground storage tanks at the lower end of Main street, where it has purchased four lots. Company warehouse will be moved to the new site.

Several nasty accidents occurred over the week-end at Bashaw. Little Tracy Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hall, had a narrow escape from death when he was knocked down and run over by a car. He escaped with only a few bruises and scratches.

Mrs. Jeno Erickson tripped on the sidewalk, and falling, broke her right ankle Sunday morning. Miss Joan Rebbel suffered from shock and bruises when the car she was driving skidded, crashing in a steep ditch.

KILLAM

A heavy rain, with considerable hail, passed over the Killam district Tuesday but no material damage has been reported.

Mrs. Fred Sorken and her three children, Dolores, Austin and Orville left Tuesday for Fallagh, Ireland, Mrs. Sorken's birthplace.

AUBURNDALE

Kathleen Busby and Kathleen Robertson of Edmonton, well-known medalists of the Alberta Musical Festival, gave two duets, and Miss Robertson sang a solo. Dr. F. S. McCall, guest speaker for the evening, gave an outline of what education meant to the individual as applied to his future life.

Princesses Visit Zoo

When Princess Margaret Rose and Princess Elizabeth went to visit the London zoo, the penguins received a lot of attention from the royal children, who are shown here making friends with the funny little inhabitants of the Antarctic.

Girl Plans To Deliver The Bulletin At Fallis

The work of selling The Bulletin is by no means restricted to young gentlemen, Margaret "Peggy" Young is anxious to inform The Bulletin's readers. This little Miss lives at Fallis and she's going to show the boys just what a girl can do on a paper route this summer. Peggy has this to say for herself:

MARGARET "PEGGY" YOUNG

Goodness! I do wish everybody would stop calling me Peggy. I think that Margaret is much nicer and it sounds more grown-up, too. I live at Fallis where my Daddy is a fisherman.

I'm sure excited about delivering for The Bulletin this summer. 'Course Mummy and Daddy think that I'm pretty young for this kind of a job but I just know I can do it as good as any boy. And just think! I'll be able to buy all kinds of things that I want all by myself. There is a wonderful little doll here that I want and before the summer is over its going to be mine.

Gee! Did you see the Queen when the Royal Train went through? The train slowed up when it went through Fallis and I saw her. She was so sweet and kind-looking that I could hardly take my eyes off her to look at the King.

I'm going to make a special point of delivering The Bulletin to the C.G.I.T. camp here 'cause I'm sure that they will all want to take it. I bet I'll deliver your Bulletin to you just as fast as any boy. Just try me and see.

4-Cent Business Reply Labels Will Be Used In Canada

OTTAWA, June 29.—Hon. Norman McLarty, postmaster general, announced Wednesday his department has authorized use under certain conditions of four-cent business reply labels similar to the 4-cent business reply card now widely used by business firms.

One of these labels may be clipped from a newspaper or magazine, filled out, pasted on the face of an ordinary envelope or card and mailed back to the advertiser without necessity of paying postage.

Canadians On Lookout For Missing Prexy

DETROIT, June 29.—Detroit authorities say police here and in Windsor, Ont., across the Detroit river, and Canadian immigration officials are on the lookout today for Dr. James Monroe Smith, missing Louisiana educationist, and Mrs. Smith.

Authorities were notified the former president of Louisiana state university, accused of embezzling school funds, might try to cross the border into Canada.

LACOMBE

Funeral services were held Monday at the Bentley Community Hall for Mrs. John Ebeling, 76, pioneer of the Gull Lake district, who passed away recently. Attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives, the services were presided over by Rev. C. A. Warren, interment being made in the Bentley cemetery. Mrs. Ebeling was married in 1917 to John Ebeling, who predeceased her last year. She is survived by two sons, John and Allen, of Bentley; three daughters, Mrs. Maggie Bytner, Sylvan Lake, Olive McKee, at home, and a married daughter in California.

Moving pictures of the Royal visit to Edmonton, scenes of the big horse sale held in Lacombe this spring and views of the Ponoka stampede, taken by several of Lacombe's amateur photographers, were shown to the members of the Lacombe and District Board at its quarterly banquet meeting Tuesday evening.

LACOMBE

Leslie Mathieson has been appointed principal of the Lacombe school, replacing Robert Warren, recently appointed an inspector by the Provincial Department of Education. Mr. Mathieson has been on the high school staff here for the past two years. Miss Margaret Grant, who also resigned, will be replaced by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Grant of Olds. Robert Moore has been promoted from the intermediate school to the high school.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

The young string beans may be classed with the valuable non-starchy vegetables, inasmuch as the starch content is low. The larger the string bean, the more starch it contains.

The immature string bean, picked while the pod is still small, is not gas-forming, and I consider that the young bean is more desirable than the larger and more mature type. When the beans inside the pods are nearly mature they may cause gas in some cases.

In selecting your string beans, make sure to select those as fresh as possible. The fresh ones will make a crisp, snapping sound when broken between the fingers. If you are choosing the green variety, choose those of a clear, bright green color; if the wax variety, then look for a clear yellow. Avoid those beans which are too large; which are dull in color, or shriveled.

You will find it pays to be careful in choosing your string beans, for those which are strictly fresh will have a much more attractive flavor than those which are old and wilted. The fresher the string bean, the better it tastes after cooking.

When you are so fortunate that you are able to go into your garden and pick your own beans a short time before cooking time, then you will find that you have the best-tasting of all string beans.

In getting the beans ready for cooking, wash them well, string if necessary, then cut them into small pieces and cook for about 40 minutes. The use of the smallest possible amount of water during the cooking process will reward you with increased flavor. I suggest that you do not add bacon or grease of any kind when preparing string beans, as this makes them less easily digested.

In the properly cooked string bean you have a succulent, tender, wholesome vegetable. Keep these good qualities and do not make the beans hard to digest by flavoring them with pork or grease.

When the beans are ready to serve, flavor them by adding fresh butter which is allowed to melt over the beans in a golden flood. The amount of salt in the butter will usually flavor the beans sufficiently, but if you desire more seasoning, then add a small amount of salt to the water in which the beans are cooked.

When the fresh beans are out of season, purchase the canned variety, selecting a type in which the beans are very small. The canned beans offer the advantage of being already cooked, requiring only a short warming-up to be ready to serve. Take some of these canned beans with you on camping trips, or on picnics, so you will be able to balance your meals by adding this wholesome vegetable.

String beans are an excellent vegetable from the dietetic standpoint. They are well-liked by almost everyone and the flavor is such that it blends well with other foods. Use them abundantly this summer, and then use them in the canned form next fall and winter.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language.

Munitions Plant

MONTREAL, June 29.—Plans for establishment of a munitions plant at Sorel, 60 miles northwest of Montreal on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, have been discussed by the French armament firm of Schneider-Creusot, it was disclosed in an interview by Joseph Simard.

CO-OPERATIVE TRADE TREND NOW NOTICED

Consumer Protection Becoming More Manifest United Board Says

REGINA, June 30.—The United Board of the Co-operative Union of Canada said today in its report to the annual congress that an implied tribute to co-operative as distinguished from competitive principles of trade is to be found in the current trend in the Dominion toward reducing competitive services by statutory and governmental authority.

Ontario was held up as an example of where consumer protection is becoming more and more manifest.

"A concrete example of such a trend is to be found in one Ontario city where the municipal authorities have decided not to grant more licenses for the sale of fuel until the population has substantially increased, and to limit to 170 the number of gasoline stations," the report said.

CLOSELY CONTROLLED

"In Ontario, too, the right to purchase and distribute milk is closely controlled by statutory and government authority which exercises the right finally to decide prices to be charged by distributors to the consuming public, and to limit the number of dairies in any distributive area.

"Unfortunately in Ontario, as yet, consumers are denied by statute the right to establish dairies to effect economies for themselves; and the alternative remedy for competitive waste, namely, government restraint or control, has the definite and great disadvantage in that monopolies in favor of established traders create unearned assets of substantial value, thereby giving the power to adjust prices to such monopoly conditions to the disadvantage of the consumer."

OPINION

Kentucky, Senator C. L. McNary of Oregon, together with other Senators and Congressmen, which reads:

'On behalf of the Sponsors of the National Meeting for Moral Re-Armament in Washington, we wish to express our appreciation for your support in this great undertaking so necessary for men and nations and for the peace of mankind. Your message has been presented on the floor of the Senate and will be recorded with your names in the official Congressional Record.'

Telegrams from Britain along with messages from distinguished American leaders and Dr. Frank Buchman's speech at the meeting, were presented in the Senate on the day of their Majesties arrival in Washington, by Senator Truman representing the Middle Western State of Missouri. Senator Truman said, 'May I say again, Mr. President, how fitting it is to record these messages from Great Britain in view of the great welcome which the nation's capital has just given to the King and Queen, and of the fact that moral re-armament is strengthening those spiritual qualities which are the common heritage of our peoples, and the strongest bonds between us. It is rare in these days, Mr. President, to find something which will unite men and nations on a plane above conflict of party, class, or political philosophy. I am sure that I voice the sentiment of all of us here today in expressing gratification at a response so remarkable to a need so urgent, and confidence that America will play her full part in this cause on whose fortunes the future of civilization must largely depend.'

President Roosevelt emphasized this need in his message to the Washington Moral Re-Armament Assembly: 'A program of moral re-armament for the world cannot fail to lessen the danger of armed conflict. Such moral re-armament, to be most highly effective, must receive support on a world-wide basis.'

That this support already exists in a remarkable degree is shown by messages on the same occasion from members of nine other parliaments.

The above letter is signed by: Sir Charles Cayzer (Conservative); J. R. Clynes (Labor); Lieut. Col. George Doland (Conservative); Sir Francis Fremantle (Conservative); Sir Robert Gower (Conservative); D. R. Grenfell (Labor); Arthur Henderson (Labor); George Lansbury (Labor); George Mathers (Labor); George Muff (Labor); Sir Cooper-Rawson (Conservative); H. R. Selley (Labor); Sir George Schuster (Liberal), and Sir John Wardlaw-Milne (Conservative).

Typical Empire Flag

Editor, Bulletin: During the visit of the King and Queen a certain flag which was displayed amongst the decorations struck me as being exceedingly pretty and appropriate to the occasion.

In design it was as follows: a white ensign on which was superimposed (1) the Star of India in the centre of the red cross with a white star above, below and on each side of it; (2) the arms of Canada on the white field below the Jack; (3) the arms of Australia in the lower right hand field; (4) the arms of South Africa in the upper right hand field.

Altogether it suggested a typical Empire flag and I would like to know if there is such an official flag or whether it was one merely designed for decoration purposes.

I have never seen it before, but think that it should be an authentic Empire flag, whoever designed it.

New Democracy Will Not Fail, Declares Herridge In Toronto Speech

Herridge Sounds Call For Action: Pledges New Deal Battle Here

obligation; a new economy of plenty with a car for every family were among the policies outlined, and as he progressively put forward his program of reform and advancement he was cheered again and yet again.

"It means a fight," Major Herridge admitted. "The forces of reaction will fight. They will say we are disloyal and un-Canadian. Reaction will struggle to divide us.

RESORT TO ANY MEANS

"It will resort to any means to turn the farmer against labor; the consumer against the producer; the east against the west. It will say we undermine the institutions of our country; we who defend them against exploitation almost worse than war.

"And this will be from the same reaction which in the last war urged honorable men into the trenches and itself stayed home and jeered and fattened on the spoils of war. But when the people say with one voice that they are not content, and mean it, they have already won.

"When you resolve to stand together, one people, resolute and bold, there is no earthly power can stop you. That is why we find within this movement today the earnest men and women of our country. It is in the churches, among the returned soldiers, among our primary producers and in the ranks of labor.

ECONOMIC MOVE

"The movement is economic in its direct objective. It is political in the means by which it will attain it, and the first act of the New Democracy is to get a parliament free to serve the needs of the people. We must make democracy work for us or fascism will make us work for it."

"Already," he said, "the new movement had the support of the people of Canada in all walks of life and of all political creeds.

"The judgment of this country has been long preparing. It is rendered now. The old parties have by a just and patient people been condemned. Sweep them away, so that prosperity may serve the people," declared Major Herridge ringingly, his utterances being punctuated by burst after burst of applause as he appealed to Canadians everywhere to "stand together in the great movement of the New Democracy; class with class and creed with creed; labor with the primary producer; youth with old age; the east with the west."

FACTOR IN ONTARIO

Already a factor in Ontario and the east the New Democracy gained further strength as a result of last night's meeting, and political observers said that it will undoubtedly be a factor to be considered in the coming election. Reports from Saskatchewan and Alberta also indicate keen interest in the movement, and Major Herridge stated after the meeting that he is on his way west to address a number of meetings on the prairies.

Greeted with applause, Major Herridge at once drove into his subject, dispersing with oratorical preliminaries.

"I have come here tonight to tell you what in my opinion must be done to get security for our people. Every Canadian has the right to security. A united Canada has the power to get it. We will have used that power when we elect a Parliament free to serve us and give that Parliament a programme of reform. Then there will be an end to want and unemployment. And happiness will rule the lives of all our people," he said.

"That truth should be a trumpet call to action. And I tell you there is going to be action, right from this day forward. This is why I am so sure of it," he promised.

"The people are in revolt against the present conditions of life in Canada. This revolt has grown into a great forward movement of our citizens out to get their rights.

"This movement began when we first knew that we could have security. It grew stronger when we knew that reaction opposed security; stronger when we knew there never would be security until there was a Parliament free to serve the people; stronger when we knew that there never would be a free Parliament until we got rid of the old Liberal and Conservative Parties.

REACTION IN SADDLE

"A party that takes money from reaction, must serve reaction. A party that serves reaction, cannot serve you. The Liberal and Conservative Parties have not served you, these last twenty years and more. Because they have taken money from reaction, these last twenty years and more.

"Poverty in the midst of plenty is the consequence. We know that now. Believe me, that knowledge is doing things to Canada.

"We are a cautious, careful people. In many countries, this difference between what we have and could have, would long ago, have driven the people into lawlessness. They would have acted first and done their thinking afterwards. Here, in Canada, we do our thinking first. The apparent fact of potential plenty had to be proved, before we would believe it.

"It seemed wrong that eleven million people in this marvellous age and marvellous country, should suffer hardship. Yet it had to be proved wrong, before we would believe it.

DENIES PROSPERITY

"We instinctively felt, before we actually knew, that high finance, the vested interests, special privilege, were denying us, prosperity. Yet they had to wreck us before we would believe it "Up to this time, when the Liberals failed us, we turned them out and put the Conservatives in. When the Conservatives failed us we put the Liberals in. When they failed again we put the Conservatives back. When they failed again, we put the Liberals back.

"Now all that is finished. We mean to put both parties out. We have been patient and forgiving, slow to anger and deliberate in action. But at last we see these parties in their true light. Campaign funds make a lurid light. We know now that these old parties have betrayed us. The hopeless record of this last helpless Parliament is the final proof of that.

"The judgment of this country has been long preparing. It is rendered now. The old Conservative and Liberal Parties have by a just and patient people, been condemned. Sweep them away, so that prosperity may sérve the people.

"The time of waiting and of wanting has gone by. The first stage of this great movement is concluded. The second stage begins. The time for action has come. Democracy marches; not the old democracy with the heel mark of reaction on its neck, but the New Democracy which means to govern.

"From this great City of Toronto, where lies the dead fruit of reaction's government: want and unemployment, sickness and despair; from here, tonight, I appeal to Canadians everywhere to stand together in this great movement of the New Democracy; class with class and creed with creed; labor with the primary producer, youth with old age; the east with the west. Unite, you who mean to get security.

NEW DEMOCRACY WILL NOT FAIL

"The New Democracy will not fail. For it is as vital and true as the essential virtues which comprise the national character.

"The movement is economic in its direct objective. It is political in the means by which it will attain it. But it is far more than these. For the attainment of security is far more than an economic achievement or a political victory. It is the proof that freedom has dominion over Canada.

"And so you find within this movement, the earnest men and women of our country. It is in the churches, among the returned soldiers, among our primary producers, in the ranks of labor. It is the best in Canada which rebels. For we know that if this movement fails, truth fails. Because God meant that every one of you should have security. This movement is your only hope of it. I would not dare say that, did I not believe that what I say is right.

"The first act of the New Democracy is to get a Parliament free to serve the people. At the next election we must choose between a free Parliament and a slave Parliament. We must make democracy work for us or Fascism will make us work for it.

ELEMENTAL RIGHT

"Today in Canada, security is an elemental right. Reaction denies us that right. It therefore must deny us the means of effective protest. It will destroy the democratic processes.

"Reaction will begin by further strengthening its power over the federal Parliament. It will merge the old parties: already one in purpose, with one boss. United, these parties will be a national government in name. In fact, they will be a Fascist government.

"Fascism will set up the Totalitarian state. It will destroy the institutions of democracy: labor unions, collective bargaining, co-operative buying and selling. It will destroy provincial rights and minority rights, the rights to freedom of religion and of race. It will hammer the individual into a robot.

CANDIDATES IN EVERY RIDING

"At the next general election, in every constituency in Canada, there must be a candidate pledged to the principles and programme of the New Democracy. These candidates must be men and women of ability and training, honored in their community, good citizens who love their country better than themselves. Naturally, no machine politician qualifies. For our candidates will denounce the party machine. Allegiance to the New Democracy requires that.

"You will elect your candidates. Then there will be a Parliament free to serve you.

"For each member thus elected will be, in fact, your representative. You will not ask them what they mean to do. You will tell them what to do.

"Your representatives have never represented you. They have represented the party machine. The party machine has represented reaction. Reaction has been the boss. Campaign funds saw to that.

"The New Democracy has no such campaign funds. You are the boss. Act as if you were one. Set up at once a committee of citizens in every constituency. See that it fairly represents the people of that constituency and their progressive economic views. With its guidance choose your candidate. There must be many women candidates elected to the next Parliament. We need their vision. Where there is no vision the people perish.

ORGANIZATION IN OWN HANDS

"This all sounds simple. And it is simple. If you mean business, nothing can stop you. Don't wait for leadership in your constituency. Give it. Let each one act as if salvation depended on his own endeavor. As indeed it does. Democracy is the individual multiplied, just as Fascism is the individual nullified.

People are Exploited

—HERRIDGE

HON. W. D. HERRIDGE

"Be what you were meant to be: free men and women. Accept the obligations of that sovereign state. Decide your present serfdom to reaction is silly, sinful, and shall end. To people of your courage and resourcefulness, nothing is impossible. And all you have to do is to elect a Parliament free to serve you. Be resolute, and the job is done. And be of good cheer. For you will bring contentment to the anxious hearts of all our countrymen."

"I speak as if our work were all before us. As a matter of fact, we have already made a good start. In various parts of Canada, committees have been set up. We have tested the simple procedure I outline and find it sound and workable. I have no wish to overstate the progress we have made. It has been good and proves what we can do, now that we are really ready to begin. For remember that until now, the primary purpose of the New Democracy has been to satisfy itself that what I say to you tonight, is every word of it, the truth.

NEW PROGRAMME

"What should be the programme of the Parliament of the New Democracy? Here is my proposal.

"The duty of Parliament is to put the natural wealth of Canada at the service of the people of Canada.

"To perform this duty, Parliament must raise production to its optimum level; that means the level of our capacity to consume. It must raise distribution to the same level; that means increased purchasing power. It must ensure equitable participation by all classes in the high standard of living which will result. A high standard of living means better conditions of life, better food and clothing, better housing, better transportation and communications, better health and greater happiness. It means that every law-abiding citizen will enjoy a basic standard of living, if he works, or if he is willing but unable to work, or if he is lawfully discharged from work by age or sickness.

"It should be plain, I think, that the attainment of a high standard of living primarily depends on a high standard of personnel. We must develop our maximum efficiency. It is the efficiency of the youth of today that will count tomorrow. Therefore today, the education of the youth of Canada must be the nation's urgent obligation.

"This is the best of business, though your politician hardly seems to think so, naturally.

DEALS WITH UNEMPLOYMENT

"For the politician of the old order of scarcity sees the youth of Canada perpetually in that old order. He therefore would equip them not for employment but for unemployment. So training is unnecessary. Instead, the politician contributes his classic exhortation on the uses of adversity and idles with the thought that possibly it might be wise to segregate our youth in camps which would be operated on the Fascist formula.

"At his very best, the old politician is a helpless thing. Take unemployment, generally. Many members of the old parties genuinely lament the fact of unemployment. But lamentations will not feed us. And they have nothing else to offer. Because reaction decrees unemployment. The old parties must conform to that decree. As I say, a good man in the old parties is no good to you.

"How can we raise production to the level of our capacity to consume, so that we may have a high standard of living?

"In a modern and efficient economy, the law of supply and demand would operate effectively to do so. Production would keep pace with increasing purchasing power.

"But ours is neither a modern nor efficient economy. It is chaotic, shot through with inequities. Therefore, not only must we raise our national economy to a new high level, but we must see that every element in it has its right place upon that level. Our economy will not function otherwise.

MUST BUTTRESS BASIC LAW

"We must buttress the law of supply and demand. We must ensure the facility, stability and responsibility of production. There shall be no waste.

"We must not produce more than we can consume at home or sell abroad.

"But we must produce right up to the limit of our normal capacity, all those products which we produce better than other countries. Our normal capacity in some products far exceeds our maximum domestic requirements. That is our great good fortune. Because we must have exports to exchange for imports we require. For there are many products we do not efficiently produce in Canada. But we must not try to export manufactured products which other countries can produce as naturally and well as we. And we must not import products which we can produce as naturally and well as other countries. These products should have the whole Canadian market.

Speaker Pledges Break Strangle Hold of Big International Financiers

"In the new economy of plenty, the home market for all manufactured and many natural products, will be far greater than the present home and export markets combined. With this vast home market, these products will require no other one.

HIGHEST STANDARD OF LIVING

"Under this plan we will achieve the highest measure of economic self-sufficiency compatible with the maintenance of the highest possible standard of living. We will equitably serve the producer and consumer, both. This is the doctrine of Canada First.

"It is the business of government to find markets for our export products. That means government co-operation through export and import boards. There will be a minimum price for primary products in the home market. Our products in the export market will be so immense in value that the government may, if necessary, adjust their prices to satisfy the maximum requirements of the import market. That will be trade upon the principle of barter; trade for the benefit of the people and not of international finance.

"This principle will, of course, involve the revision of existing trade treaties, now dangerously inadequate. For they serve the old order. They therefore cannot serve the people.

MODERN POLICY NEEDED

"A modern trading policy will point the definite way to greater Empire trade based upon the self-same principle. That would be leadership along the way to peace.

"The Empire desperately needs leadership. And it is disloyal to pretend the contrary. It is our time to lead. But only a free government can lead. A government which bows to international finance will drive this Empire to destruction. For international finance is the enemy of democracy. And there can be no Empire if democracy lies dead within it.

"Likewise, a modern trading policy will establish trade relations with the United States upon a basis of maximum economic benefit and minimum economic dependence. Today, it is minimum economic benefit and maximum economic dependence. Persist in this stupidity, and some day our good neighbors may be buying us in job lots at a bankruptcy sale.

"Our domestic and export markets must have every chance.

"Production, therefore, must not be burdened with excessive costs. The instruments of production should sell at prices not higher than in the United States. Greater distribution will make that possible.

FACILITY OF TRANSPORT ALSO

"Products must have ready access to all parts of the domestic and export markets. Facility of transport should be our motto.

"Therefore, I lay it down as a principle of the new economy that we must upbuild a great new transportation system to serve the requirements of a nation which means to have the highest standard of living in the world. It is plain that the existing system does not even serve our present low standard of living. Yet reaction wants to further limit it, in personnel, in trackage, in efficiency, in competition. Reaction has no use for competition. In the Fascist state there is no competition. In this new system, railways, highways, waterways and air-ways each will have its scientifically designated place. The place of railways will be pivotal. That means vast railways, modern and efficient. Weeds will not grow upon their tracks. For these railways will be redesigned primarily upon the basis of public service and not dividends. Freight rates and other tolls will be cut down. Today they paralyze efficiency.

"With a great transportation system must go a great communications system. Radio is as vital as the postal services.

"To get distribution upon the level of our capacity to produce, requires adequate purchasing power.

BANK MUST FUNCTION

"It will be the job of the Bank of Canada to achieve the necessary increase in purchasing power in step with increasing national wealth. Parliament will see that the Bank of Canada does its job.

"Parliament has never tried to raise purchasing power to the level of potential production. You must understand that.

"Here is the reason. The actuating element in the capitalist system is profits. Reaction believes that high profits depend on scarcity. Therefore production has been kept down to our capacity to purchase. The system has looked to high prices rather than to volume of production, for its profits. We do a grand export trade, in profits.

"Therefore reaction's first concern is the welfare of our foreign dollar. To ensure it, we are condemned to poverty. The welfare of our foreign dollar has come to mean far more to reaction than the welfare of our people. Because it thinks impairment of our foreign dollar will burden the payment of our foreign debt. The fear of that dictates the national policy. For I am satisfied that no industrial country, constitutionally free, has ever been so dominated by international finance. Its resident agent is reaction. And remember, reaction rules us.

"Therefore, we shape our national economy to serve our foreign dollar. We aim to balance budgets on a scarcity level. To get a favorable balance of trade, we do such suicidal things as these: we drive down prices of primary products; we drive down wages. We shut out needed imports. This drives up prices of manufactured products. We fail to export what we should because we try to export what we never should.

SHAMEFULLY EXPLOITED PEOPLE

"We are the hired man of international finance: a tired man. Because we've suffered want. Because they told us that we had to. Behold this great rich nation dressed in the shreds and patches of a monstrous illusion.

"We are a shamefully exploited people, derided by our enemies, contemptuously pitied by our friends. Because both wonder why we have so long endured this tyranny. We also wonder, now that we mean to end it. Never mind! Just take swift steps to end it.

"Be sure Canadians henceforth shall govern Canada.

"I will be sure. For if ever I have anything to do with government, I will break the hold of international finance upon this country. Canadians shall have dominion over their own. We will pay our debts. But national poverty shall not be a condition precedent to payment. Upon the principle of trade I have laid down, the payment of our debts will be no hardship. And national purchasing power will be uninfluenced by extra-territorial circumstances.

PEOPLE'S WELFARE ONLY PURPOSE

"Then the banking system of Canada will raise purchasing power to the level of our capacity to produce, for the only purpose of the system will be the people's welfare. Ask any able, honest banker if thus enfranchised, the banking system will have the slightest difficulty in meeting our requirements. His answer I predict, will be emphatically, no.

"So there you are. We must have a balanced economy. Not only must we raise our whole economy to a new high level, but we must see that every class has its just place upon that level.

"If increased purchasing power is to correct the present inequities, it must be equitably distributed.

"Therefore, wages, prices for primary products and consumer costs must have the right relationship.

"There will be a minimum wage. There will be a minimum price for primary producers. Between the primary producer and the ultimate consumer there will be no undue price spread. I have said that every law-abiding citizen is entitled to a basic standard of living. And therefore, entitled to a minimum wage. If he works, he will get that wage. If he is willing but unable to work, he will still get that wage. If he is sick, that wage will be paid to him in health insurance; if his crop fails, in crop insurance. If he has reached the voluntary pension level, that wage will be paid to him by way of pension. We will have real pensions. Why should our people work until they break or die?

"Wages must be fairly and widely distributed. Increased production along existing lines, will cut down unemployment. But new works also must be started. Design the stature of the future Canada. Then build towards it. Reform and strengthen everywhere.

CAR FOR EVERY FAMILY

"We must have good roads, and every family with a motor car. We must have a building programme that will build houses. Every one of us shall have a home. That is the way towards sound production and equitable distribution. These go together, naturally. When you have them, the only shortage will be that of labor.

"You call this magic. I call it common sense. If it looks like magic, that is because you never have had justice. You have been exploited, robbed, sometimes denied the very right to live.

"To a minimum wage must be joined a minimum price for our primary products. A minimum price means a stable price at remunerative levels to be guaranteed by the federal government; the provinces have done their part. That is a price which will permit our producers to fully share in a high standard of living. Today, our producers share starvation: with wheat at sixty, seventy, eighty cents; with farm, dairy, fish, mineral, and forest products at prices below production costs. Starve the primary producer and ultimately you starve the rest of us.

UNITED BY COMMON INTEREST

"The old order of scarcity turns labor and the primary producer into economic enemies. In the new order of fair prices and fair wages, the primary producer and labor will be associates, united by a common interest. Theirs will be a friendship which will safeguard the national security. How can there be security without that friendship?

"But fair wages and fair prices in themselves will not reduce all debts to dischargeable proportions. Supplementary action is needed for that purpose. It must not rob the individual creditor. Nor must the public debt drag down the individual citizen. A modern monetary system must provide a genuine cure. The old system has no cure.

Mean To Put Both Parties Out: Betrayers Of Common People

"Now what about the consumer, the forgotten man? He must have his just price, too, if the new economy is to be a stable one.

"I have said that the products which we produce as well as other countries should have the whole Canadian market. But only at a fair price; never at a price substantially above the United States one. When we have production upon the level of our capacity to consume, we will be able, I maintain, to sell at prices in line with the United States prices.

ON UNITED STATES LEVEL

"This is a fundamental matter. If we cannot establish our standard of living on at least the United States level, we are a beaten people. Excessive prices will keep our standard of living below that level.

"Now fair market prices of commodities are sometimes iniquitously swollen by combines, monopolies and international cartels.

"A free Parliament will end this species of oppression. Big business is not necessarily bad business if you have in Parliament, men big enough to control it. The sting of big business is combine and monopoly. We will draw that sting. We will legislate trusts, combines, monopolies, into submission to the rules observed by ordinary business. And to ordinary business, small business, we will lend our earnest co-operation. It is in a perilous state. Because it, too, has been the victim of that bully, international finance.

ADD TO PROGRAMME

"There, then, is an outline of the programme which your needs now make imperative. It will be added to, as study and experience advise, and as conventions of the New Democracy may decide.

"A permanent programme cannot be made immediately effective. Until it is, there must be an emergency plan. It will be a plan of constructive and thorough-going relief. The Parliament of the New Democracy will assume the entire costs of relief. It will not be called relief, but the right to live. And Parliament will deal with the victims of reaction according to that law.

"Never forget that the basic thing in reform is to raise distribution to the level of our capacity to produce. If we fail in that, all other reforms will be the merest tinkering with the old economy. Tinkering is indefensible. But if we succeed, we will have put the natural wealth of this country at the service of the people. We will have made democracy work. We will have started off the partnership of freedom and security in a glorious way. Canada at last will be a nation.

"But never forget that political reform must come before economic reform. The economy of plenty awaits your rejection of the old parties. Sweep them out of Parliament.

FIGHT WILL BE BITTER

"That is our first job. Resolutely unite on it. The old order is the master of the old parties. It will stop at nothing to stop us. For the first time, democracy threatens it with defeat. Reaction will fight back with all the weapons its resources can provide and its desperation, employ; money and propaganda and a horde of little "yes" men parroting its purblind prejudices.

"Reaction will struggle to divide us. It will resort to any means to turn the farmer against labor; the consumer against the producer; the east against the west. It will say we are disloyal and un-Canadian, and that we undermine the institutions of our country; we who defend them against exploitation almost worse than war; this same reaction which in the last war urged honorable men into the trenches and itself stayed home and jeered and fattened on the spoils of war.

"Are you content to go on in this way; you who would work and have no work to do; you who work hard at near starvation levels; you who are young and futureless; you who are old and need a friendly hand; you who are sick and homeless and in despair; you who would save your country from this needless tragedy?

CANNOT BE STOPPED

"Say you are not content; and mean it. When you say that, you have already won. When you resolve to stand together, one people, resolute and bold, there is no earthly power that can stop you.

"It does not matter that we are only ordinary citizens without wealth or influence in high places; or that the might of international finance is fighting us; or that our Parliament has let us down.

"None of these things matter. We are the New Democracy. And on our side is all the strength of those whose cause is just, and all the faith of those who mean to fight for it, and all the prayers of those who cannot fight but know that when we win real happiness will come to them."

Three-day Celebration To Mark Discovery of Gold in Cariboo Area

QUESNEL, B.C., June 29—A three-day celebration to mark the first discovery of gold in the Cariboo by a French-Canadian prospector 80 years ago, starts here, today, with prospectors, miners, cowboys, Indians, businessmen and tourists from British Columbia and Alberta taking part.

The anniversary celebration will open with a banquet today. Guest speakers will include former Judge F. W. Howay, noted British Columbia historian, Hon. W. J. Asseltine, minister of mines and J. G. Turgeon, member of parliament for Cariboo.

It was in the early spring of 1859 that Ben McDonald found gold on a bar at the mouth of the Quesnel river which empties into the Fraser just below this town.

YELLOW METAL THICK

The precious metal was so thick, the sands of the bar had a yellow tinge. The stampede that followed McDonald's discovery led to the Cariboo gold rush of 1862.

The Cariboo country has been a steady producer of placer gold since then.

A parade depicting ancient and modern methods of travel in the Cariboo, led by Al Young, veteran stage driver, will be staged Friday. Novelty races will be featured in the afternoon and old time fiddlers, featuring "Hudson Bay" tunes, will have their fling at a dance in the evening.

DRILLING CONTEST

A rock drilling contest will be held Saturday when hard rock miners will compete for a $100 prize donated by the provincial department of mines and mining companies.

Horse and foot racing will round out the day's events and the evening will be given to boxing and dancing.

All hotels are already booked full and the Pacific Great Eastern railway plans to spot sleeping cars in the railway yard to provide accommodation for the overflow crowd.

COMMON PLAN FOR ECONOMIC ILLS NEEDED

United Board Pictures Conditions As Menace To National Safety

REGINA, June 29—The United Board of the Co-operative Union of Canada, in a report submitted today to the annual congress, pictured conditions as a "menace to national safety as serious in its consequences as a major war."

The Board said co-operative action between governments, political parties and political groups is necessary to reach a common understanding and put into effect a common plan for the solution of economic and social problems.

USEFUL EMPLOYMENT

"Steps should be taken to restrain or prevent excessive incomes—largely unearned—and for the more equitable distribution of the national income, which would greatly increase the demand for production and services and, therefore, the actual wealth of the country, and to put to useful employment hundreds of thousands of persons eking out a bare existence on relief," the report said.

The Union executive felt such a policy would increase greatly the demand for farm produce and raise prices to remunerative levels.

NO PRACTICAL STEPS

"Your board deplores the fact since the last meeting of Congress no serious or practical steps have been taken by governmental bodies to solve our national economic problems and a condition of 'drift' has been permitted to continue," the report said.

"The body economic in effect is suffering from economic tuberculosis for which no remedy is being prescribed. Co-operative economy by its practical demonstration of increasing success under conditions of depression has, in highly organized co-operative countries, pointed the way to a solution if governments could be induced, as far as possible, to apply its principles.

AGGRAVATES SITUATION

"An eight per cent tax on consumption, known as a sales tax, with the pyramided profits on the tax itself, aggravates a bad economic situation by reducing the purchasing power even of the most indigent and, therefore, of the demand for production and opportunities for the employment of labor."

President W. C. Good said in his address he believed application of co-operative philosophy "can mitigate and finally abolish the conflicts that torment or threaten all of us."

LEAD TO CONFLICT

"No group loyalities are bad in themselves," he said. "They are evil only when they lead to conflict, and they will inevitably lead to conflict unless they are merged finally in a loyalty that transcends, absorbs but does not destroy all lesser loyalties. And this final loyalty can be none other than loyalty to the whole."

The co-operative leader said relevance of the co-operative movement to the present world situation is direct and its significance unmistakable.

INQUIRY WILL BE MADE INTO CASWELL DEATHS

OTTAWA, June 29—Through the Canadian legation at Tokyo, the Canadian government will make representations to the Japanese government regarding the deaths of Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Caswell, formerly of Ottawa, external affairs department officials announced Wednesday.

The missionary and his wife were killed at Changteh, Hunan province, China, last week, when the Canadian Holiness Movement Mission was destroyed by Japanese aerial bombs.

Word reached the department yesterday that the Japanese consul-general at Hankow called at the British consulate there Wednesday to express his personal regret at the death of Mr. and Mrs. Caswell.

LONDON, June 29—Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, was asked in the House of Lords yesterday, by Lord Snell, Labor, whether "in any negotiation likely to take place, (with the Tokyo government) any inquiry would be made into the loss of the lives of a Canadian missionary and his wife in a recent bombing in China."

The foreign secretary replied the point would not be overlooked but he could not yet indicate what appropriate action would be taken.

POOL ELEVATOR SUB-FOREMAN FACES REMAND

Sensational Hearing Of Arson, Conspiracy and Theft Held

HUMBOLDT, Sask., June 29.—Frederick H. Peterson of Prince Albert, former sub-foreman for the Saskatchewan Pool elevator construction department, was remanded for trial on bail of $10,000 here Wednesday.

Preliminary hearing of 16 charges of conspiracy, arson, forgery, false pretenses and theft against Peterson ended this afternoon.

The hearing, most sensational of its kind in the annals of Saskatchewan legal history, had its roots in the incendiary burning in 1937 and 1938 of 10 grain elevators located in eight north-eastern Saskatchewan towns. Two men, John Anderson and Johan Edward Johanson of Prince Albert, are serving 10-year penitentiary terms for the burnings. The Crown accuses Peterson of being the "brains" behind the scheme.

After remanding Peterson for trial at the next King's Bench court in Humboldt, scheduled for October, Magistrate J. T. Leger ordered bail fixed at $10,000 on the application of J. G. Diefenbaker, counsel for the accused man.

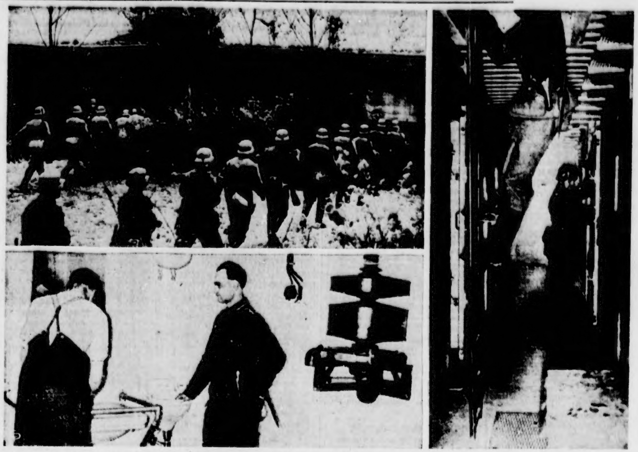
1,500,000 German Troops Start Manoeuvres



Here are the latest pictures taken of Germany's highly-touted Siegfried Line, the barrier which the Nazis have erected facing the Maginot Line of France. Finishing touches are being rushed at same time as repair work, necessitated by recent floods which inundated part of the system. Meanwhile Germany is reported moving the first units of a force of 100,000 men into the fortifications, including the Condor Legion, which fought in the Spanish war, as a million and a half men start summer manoeuvres. German soldiers are seen entering the steel and concrete fortress, upper left. At lower left, two soldiers are shown in one of the washrooms. Note the ventilation system at right which would filter air in event of gas attack. At right, a soldier climbs up ladder to the firing step, while another closes door into the bomb and shell-proof shelter.

TWO DEFIANT MEMBERS OF I.R.A. JAILED

Irish Republicans Say They'll Die For Cause

LONDON, June 29—Two defiant members of the outlawed Irish Repubican army, one of whom said "we are prepared to die in the cause we are fighting for," were given long prison terms Wednesday in a police drive against terroristic bombings.

John Joseph Keane, 37, a salesman, was sentenced to 10 years for possessing explosives. He said:

"The I.R.A. has again been ordered to take up arms. We do not hold a prejudice against the people of England, but we hold it against the British government, which has suppressed our country for 750 years."

Joseph Malone, 22, was sentenced to serve five years for placing a tear gas bomb in a theatre.

Grain Elevator Firms To Launch Huge Repair Renovating Program

WINNIPEG, June 29—Although definite estimates were not forthcoming and company heads remained more or less silent, grain elevator firms Wednesday indicated they would launch shortly on a huge repair and renovating program in expectations of a bumper crop.

Not since 1928, when 544,598,000 bushels of wheat were produced in the west has the crop outlook been so promising. Elevator companies are expected to expend around $3,000,000 in repairing and renovating the 5,679 elevators across the prairies for the harvest, according to grain circle estimates.

It was believed at least 150 elevators, closed during the drought reign of the last few years, would be reopened. Last year about 5,390 were operated. One firm said it planned to re-open 50 elevators, one of which had been closed for seven years.

However, officials refused any authoritative comment as the season is young yet and grasshoppers, rust and frost might blacken the picture.

It takes 1,000,000 pounds of ore from the Eldorado mines of Canada, believed to be the richest in the world, to produce one gram of radium in final form.

Minimum Wage For Travellers Is Advocated

REGINA, June 29—Commercial travellers will come under the Minimum Wage act if a plea of J. T. Berrington, of the Associated Canadian Travellers, is accepted by the Saskatchewan Minimum Wage board.

In representations before the board, Mr. Berrington urged a minimum wage of $25 a week for inexperienced travellers and $35 for experienced men. He said present rates of pay for travellers were based on conditions which existed 10 or 20 years ago.

English Papers Warn Germany that Poland Will Be Protected

LONDON, June 29.—The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) today warned that any attempt to violate the integrity of Poland would mean war with the British people, "who will be ready to do their part."

"Perhaps Mr. Churchill's words will help to convince Hitler, before it is too late, that that is so," the newspaper said editorially.

BRITONS ARE READY

"Premier Daladier's call to the French people has evoked instant response and if war is forced on the British people—as it certainly would be by any attempt upon the integrity of Poland—they will be ready to do their part."

The Daily Express (Independent) said:

"We read of German soldiers pouring into the city of Danzig, of machine-gun exercises in the Danzig Free Corps, of the issue of gas masks.

"The object is to frighten us. But that game won't work. And if we cannot avoid a European war, we must endure it. . . .

"The British government should extend the scope of conscription here, and call additional classes of young men, and the unemployed should be called up too."

PLANS NEW MISCHIEF

The Daily Herald (Labor) said:

"It is clear that Herr Hitler is planning new mischief in Danzig. The nature of that mischief is not yet certain. It may only be a stormy demonstration to test the nerves of Poland and her allies. Or it may take the form of a military coup of the kind that could hardly fail to precipitate an international crisis of the gravest character."

Flying Bishop Of Arctic Is Honored

FORT SMITH, N.W.T., June 29.—Honoring Bishop Breynat, the Flying Bishop of the Arctic, who has just completed fifty years work in the service of the Roman Catholic Church, 47 years of which have been in the far north, the Sisters of Charity here entertained at a luncheon on Monday of this week. Present were veterans of the church, traders, police officials, government officers and others prominently identified with the life of the north and its development.

Among the noted guests who gathered to do honor to the veteran bishop were M. L. "Mickey" Ryan and his brother, Pat Ryan of Ryan Bros. Transportation Company, Dr. Urquhart, Paul Trudel and W. Champagne.

The luncheon was an attractive affair and many stories were told of the old days when the Bishop first arrived in the Territories and of the many noted characters of that day and since. Bishop Breynat himself told of many of his adventures and was pleased with the attendance at the luncheon of so many of his olden-time friends.

Paris Summertime Smartness Floats On Clouds of Chenille Veiling

Crisp White Glazed Linen Collar and Cuffs Serve As Delightful Contrast To This Cool-For-Summer Frock

Deliciously ethereal, yet not too romantic for a practical, modern woman is this Jean Desses cocktail dress of black velvet dotted net. The extra-full skirt falls in soft folds, following the lines of the underdress of black satin. The illogical tailored bodice combines transparency effect with crisp white glazed linen collar and cuffs.

PARIS—For summer tea-dances, for dining at the World's Fair, for all occasions where to look cool is an essential to chic, Paris has hit upon the idea of using chenille dotted veiling.

Until this season, chenille dotted veiling was reserved for trimming on more or less formal hats. Now, however, in colors and in the ever-popular and a trifle smarter black and navy, it has become a dress fabric.

In his recent collection, Jean Desses showed a frock in black chenille dotted net (the fine veiling kind), and the dress has a full skirt over a circular-cut underdress of gleaming black satin. The bodice is as clean-cut and fitted as if it were made in any other staple fabric, with fastening centre front, high neckline and short sleeves, all underlined by crisp white glazed linen in the form of collar and cuffs.

Robert Piguet's dinner ensemble is of white chenille dotted veiling on a black base. Here the skirt shows very slight fullness at the hem, preserving a pencil-like silhouette, stressed by the clinging lines of the black crepe sheath.

A sort of Arabian night's princess touch is provided by the tall fez-like hat of lightweight black felt trimmed with a wide draped length of the veiling that continues in a scarf which winds around the neckline. A chunky necklace of wrought gold and semi-precious stones provides a chic finish to the neckline.

CRINOLINE IS WORN, TOO

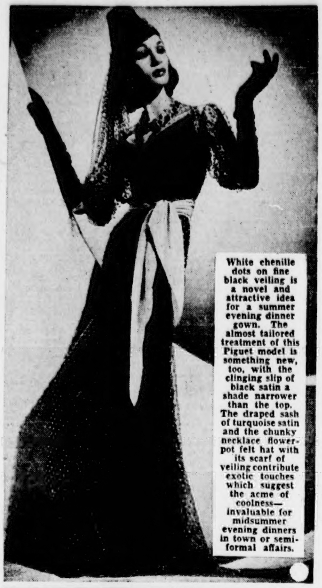
Summer evening gowns in crinoline have evolved into wide skirts with crinolined hems which stand away from the feet but preserve the slimness of waistline and hips. These are just as much of a problem to handle as the honest-to-goodness hooped skirt, but newer and therefore smarter. Made of clinging chiffon, they are most attractively romantic.

Bustles and bustle effects are items which will be featured in the fall collections. Balenciaga, the most sought-after couturier in Paris at the moment, shows every kind of bustle effect, both for evening and daytime, in the latter hinted at rather than stressed as in the former. Maggy Rouff is another designer who favors bustles.

Bustles Or Bustle-Effects Are Headline News For Fashion Stories Revealing the Coming Autumn Style Modes



White chenille dots on fine black veiling is a novel and attractive idea for a summer evening dinner gown. The almost tailored treatment of this Piguet model is something new, too, with the clinging slip of black satin a shade narrower than the top. The draped sash of turquoise satin and the chunky necklace flowerpot felt hat with its scarf of veiling contribute exotic touches which suggest the acme of coolness—invaluable for midsummer evening dinners in town or semi-formal affairs.

Couple Leave For Trip To Arctic

RICHARD FINNIE, photographer, lecturer, and author of Ottawa, flew to Edmonton from the far north, where he has been during the long winter months, to be met here by Miss Alyce Robert of San Francisco. Their marriage here climaxed a romantic story which began with their original meeting in Paris. That was in 1931, and on Wednesday of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Finnie again visited the city, this time just briefly, enroute for the centres of the great north where they expect to be until freeze-up, photographing and gathering material for future lectures and stories. They make their home now in Carp, Ontario.

PHOTOGRAPHER

Mr. Finnie acted as government photographer at the time of the official expedition in 1930 to seek remains of the ill-fated Franklin expedition. Living among the Eskimos in the Mackenzie district was a new experience to him, though he had covered the eastern Arctic previously in his government position. This year's trip north will be his third expedition from Edmonton, his eighth in the Arctic.

Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Finnie have continued the work independently, travelling, lecturing and writing articles. Mrs. Finnie, an author in her own right, wrote a brilliant article for "Harper's," dealing with the feminine angle of travelling in the eastern Arctic, following their trip on the Hudson's Bay Company boat, the "Nascopie," as far as Chesterfield Inlet.

SPEAKS IN EDMONTON

A few years ago, the couple visited Edmonton, Mr. Finnie addressing the Canadian Club on the subject of the Quebecois, illustrating his lecture with a colored film taken in the habitant country.

Since that time, they have lectured throughout the United States, travelled to Paris where they again used their photographic ability to advantage.

Dyed-in-the-wool adventurers, Mr. and Mrs. Finnie are looking forward eagerly to their newest experience.

For Mrs. Finnie, this trip from Edmonton will be an especially interesting one, for she will see the length and breadth of her husband's "field of action" before she joined him in his adventures and travels. They will travel mainly by plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Finnie were guests at the Macdonald hotel, leaving on Thursday morning by Canadian Airways plane for Fort Smith, their first stop.

By ALICIA HART

Midsummer beauty news straight from Hollywood, the beauty capital of the world—

After a week-end of tennis, ocean bathing and riding which leaves her hands rough, and possibly discolored, rather than soft and smooth, Dorothy Lamour massages warm peanut oil into wrists as well as hands and allows some of it to remain on all night. Plain peanut oil, according to Hollywood beauty shops, is, among a good many of the picture stars, a favorite preparation for nightly hand treatments.

Jean Parker always has her hair dried by hand. Her hairdresser massages Miss Parker's scalp and brushes her hair vigorously while it is drying.

Some of the film stars do daily exercises, but the majority prefer to become expert at a sport or two—and get enough exercise that way. A few depend on semi-weekly body massage treatments to keep their figures slim and trim.

Seldom does one hear a star say that she is on some kind of fad or freak diet these days. The majority keep from gaining weight simply by eating small portions of each item on perfectly balanced menus.

Stars who worry over being underweight rather than overweight, try to eat five light meals a day instead of three heavy ones, to drink quantities of milk, and, most importantly, to go to bed at the same time every night and sleep at least nine hours.

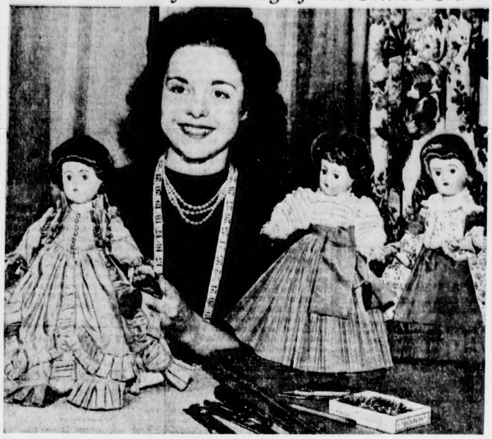
THE 'MONITOR' WAS NOT A U.S. SHIP WHEN IT FOUGHT THE 'MERRIMAC'
6-29

When the Monitor engaged and defeated the Merrimac at Hampton Roads on March 8, 1862, in the most important naval battle in United States history, it was not owned by the United States Government, but was the personal property of its designer, John Ericson. The ship had been built for the United States Government, but according to the contract, it would not become the property of the Government and would not be paid for in full till it had been "tested for ninety days." The ship did not become the property of the Government till five days after the famous battle. The ship was bought for $275,000.

Designer of Clothes Has Won Fame As Creator of Fashion Dolls Depicting The Colorful History of the United States



Here's Scharmel Elliott, attractive young designer, at her work table with several of her collection of 30 dolls, dressed in authentic American costumes from 1492 to 1939.

NEW YORK.—The tale of Scharmer Elliott's success is a success story in reverse.

Miss Elliott, designer of clothes, started out "doing" big things, but reached the peak in an interesting career through her skill in "doing" little ones. From being a straight fashion designer of clothes for women, she has become one of America's outstanding designers of dolls' clothes.

Her exhibition of thirty dolls, made in New York, depicting a panorama of American civilization as it is expressed in the evolution of American fashion, is on display in one of New York's largest department stores.

"Teacher probably told you that history can be traced through the kind of clothes that people wore at different times," Miss Elliott says. "Study the clothes of a certain period and you will be able to tell fairly accurately the kind of lives people led—whether they were prosperous, whether they had time to make and wear elaborate clothing, or whether they were pioneering and wearing simple clothes, conserving their time and money for working and building."

Number One doll in Miss Elliott's collection is dressed in the garb of an American Indian. Next is a replica of a dress worn by a Spanish-American woman in 1565, the date St. Augustine, Fla., was settled. The third is another Indian costume, and it shows clearly how much more colorfully the Indians dressed after white men had been here a few years.

"I call the thirtieth doll in the collection Miss Early 1939," Miss Elliott went on. "In her costume is reflected the fact that Spain has been so much in the news. She wears a colorful, gypsy skirt and a full blouse with long, full sleeves.

PREPARES COSTUMES IN REGULAR FASHION

"If I had been doing two 1939-ers, I would have dressed one in frothy lace to show that women are more interested in genuinely feminine pursuits now than they were a few years ago when any woman with a job was inevitably known as a career woman."

Frankfurters Combine Splendidly With Beans

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

A can of baked beans can go places if you give it a few frankfurters for company.

STUFFED FRANKFURTERS
(10 servings)

Ten frankfurters (about 5 inches long), 10 slices bacon. For stuffing: 1 can pork and beans, 2 tablespoons India relish or pickle relish, 2 tablespoons chili sauce.

Put beans in mixing bowl and mash slightly. Then mix with relishes. Split the frankfurters lengthwise, leaving one side uncut. Open and fill with stuffing. Close and wrap each frankfurter in a slice of bacon and fasten with toothpick. Put in baking pan and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes.

GLAZED HAM AND BEAN ROLLS
(8 servings)

Eight thin slices ham, 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 can pork and beans. Sauce for glazing: 3 tablespoons dark brown sugar, 3 tablespoons hot water.

Spread the slices of ham with prepared mustard. Empty beans into bowl and mash slightly, only enough so that beans will hold together when spread on ham. Place 1 spoonful of beans on each slice of ham and roll. Place slice of ham in baking pan. Use a 9-inch square pan. Baste with brown sugar syrup just before placing into oven and baste twice again during baking. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grape and grapefruit juice, dry cereal, nut muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tuna fish and celery salad, hot biscuits, fruit bowl, cookies, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, glazed ham and bean rolls, creamed radishes, 8-minute cabbage, sliced peaches and cream, coffee, milk.

Miss Helen Morrison was bridesmaid and the best man was Mr. J. Nundahl.

Following a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Jeglum will make their home in Hardisty.

According To Culbertson

Yesterday I reported what happened to a mere man who wandered into his wife's regular afternoon game. This incident was taken from a story by R. H. Edney, writing in the Bridge World Magazine. His hero learned another lesson on the next deal—to wit:

West, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

With the beleaguered man sitting East, the bidding proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 club | 1 diamond | Pass |
| 1 no trump | Double | 2 spades | Pass |
| 4 spades | Double | Redouble | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

South opened the six of clubs, which declarer won in his own hand with the king. He then led the jack of spades and, to his disgust, North held off. Another spade lead was taken with the king, and the king and queen of hearts were returned, East ruffing the last named. Now, still hoping against hope that North would put him in dummy for a diamond finesse, declarer led another trump, but when North won she persisted with hearts, airily disregarding the fact that another heart ruff would establish the jack in dummy. Declarer could not refuse to ruff this trick, unless he were willing to concede defeat on the spot, hence ruffed with his last trump and now found himself still in his own hand. There was only one ray of hope and that was that the diamond king would drop. The play of the ace, however, failed to produce anything more interesting than low cards from the opponents, and now declarer's own hand was dead as a door nail. The opponents finally came out, not only with a diamond trick, but with a club trick as well, since dummy's five of clubs could not be salvaged.

This time Mr. East was highly mortified. "Sorry, partner," he managed to say. "I might have held it to one down by conceding the queen of diamonds before leading the ace."

"Yes, and you might have made the contract by playing the ace of clubs at the first trick and finessing against the diamond king!" was his partner's exasperated comment.

Obviously, the lady was correct. East had thrown away his redoubled contract at the very first trick. It was vital to finesse against the diamond king and, although on the surface dummy appeared to have plenty of entries in the spade suit itself, these would not materialize if North played properly. Note that it would have done declarer no good to win with the club king and lead a low spade to the ten spot. North would win and, as before, return two rounds of hearts. After ruffing, declarer could do one of two things. He could lead the spade jack, in which case North would hold off, or he could lead another spade to the queen. If he chose the latter course, North would win and again lead a heart and declarer would be back in his own hand.

Obviously, declarer would have been much better off if fate had dealt him the singleton deuce of clubs instead of the singleton king. For all practical purposes they were equal, but the king was a lure that declarer could not resist. Had he taken the proper view of matters and put up dummy's club ace at the first trick, then taken the diamond finesse, the contract would have become a laydown. As it was, he merely exposed himself to some high class feminine gloating.

Dorothy Dix Says:

We are two fun-loving girls in our latter teens who enjoy going out with boys, but don't like petting. Our refusal to indulge in this sort of thing seems to annoy the boys at the time, but we wonder how the majority of them really feel about it. Do they think more of the girls who show no restraint whatever than they do of the girls who maintain their self-respect and refuse to do anything they think wrong? When a boy decides to marry, which type of girl does he prefer? WE WONDER.

Answer:

I get thousands of letters from girls asking this same question. Many of these girls say that they stand by their colors and refuse to pay $5 worth of mauling for a 5-cent soft drink, and they have not found that it has interfered with their popularity.

Some of them think that the boys themselves are fed up with too much kissing and are glad to go with a girl who will cut out all of the synthetic lovemaking. And still other girls opine that the girls who say that boys won't go with a girl who won't permit them to take liberties with her is just using that as an alibi for her lack of charm, and that the girls who are pretty and entertaining and good at games and who have "oomph" have plenty of dates without paying for them with their self-respect.

But the great majority of girls are evidently sold on the idea that if they don't permit every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes along to kiss and neck and manhandle them that they will have no dates. Because they are at an age when not to run with the gang is worse than death, they sell out that cheaply.

Of course the girl who has no scruples to hold her back, who will pet and get drunk with men and let them make a plaything of her, will always be more popular with the men than the nice girls. For men like to play around with women of easy morals who put no restrictions on them. Also, many of these girls marry, but they marry the kind of men who are as loose-living as themselves and who have as little idea of principle and honor as they have. And such marriages generally go on the rocks.

Maybe the girl who is "particular" or "old-fashioned," as they call her now, may not have as many dates as the play girl, but boys will respect her more, and in the end she will have a better chance at making a good marriage. For, whatever men are themselves, they want to know that their wives are beyond reproach and that they have principles and ideals that they live by. DOROTHY DIX

REMOVE FOOD FLAVOR

Fat used for deep-frying will sometimes take on the taste of some strong-flavored food previously cooked in it. To remove this taint so that the fat may be used again, deep-fry until quite brown a few sliced raw potatoes. Then strain through a coarse, clean cloth.

TRY IT THE "SALADA" WAY
Infuse 6 heaping teaspoons of Salada Black Tea in a pint of fresh, boiling water. After 6 minutes strain liquid into 2-quart container; while hot, add 1 to 1½ cups of sugar and juice of 2 lemons, strained; stir until sugar is dissolved; fill container with cold water. Do not allow tea to cool before adding cold water or liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chipped ice. The above makes 7 tall glasses.

Raising A Family

Recently at a movie, a young fellow in his early teens or so, began to kick the back of my seat.

I stood it for about five minutes and then it began to dawn that I was hindering his view and he wanted me to move. My young companion and I moved over. Another woman took my place. The same thing happened. He kicked so hard that he shook us all.

O. R. Barton

Then I turned and said, "Please stop bumping that way."

He said, "Aw—shut up."

And I thought to myself, "You deserved that. Don't you know the latest in etiquette? Don't you know it is completely passe for youth to accept a bawling out when it deserves it? Isn't it written all over the place that youngsters simply refuse to be reminded of their manners?"

Perhaps I should have forgotten the young pup's conduct, but it happened when I came home that the twins were just about to leave the house, boys of fourteen or so.

"We came to thank you for the books you lent us," they said.

I didn't expect the two young live wires to make a call. A fine June Saturday and the whole lovely world calling. However, they came in with me, and stayed half an hour.

"Boys," I said, "you've done me so much good, I almost lost my faith in youngsters today."

HIRING BY IMPRESSION

How foolish to judge by one incident. Nevertheless, a business man said this. It is really the reason I am writing: "I find myself hiring young fellows more and more by my impressions.

"Today, I take their fitness pretty much for granted. I can tell in a few weeks all about their capacity, and that's that. But unless a chap is courteous, able to take telling and willing to acknowledge a mistake readily and cheerfully, I don't want him for a week or a day."

It shows that reaction is sure to result and doors will silently begin to close against the youth who kicks his way and then expects a pat on the back.

Minute Make-Ups

Before putting on your dust-proof gloves for outdoor work, of course, you cream your hands thoroughly. And here's another trick—dig your nails across a cake of damping soap. This will be an added protection against grimy nails—just in case a wee mite of dust does seep through.

What To Do

Several girls and myself are planning to take a motor trip, making several day stopovers in small towns and larger cities and wish you would explain in your column the difference between American plan and European plan hotels.

MISS T. M. A.

Answer — Under the American plan you pay a fixed sum per day or per week, which includes both room and meals. Under the European plan you pay a fixed rate for your room, and in addition pay separately for your meals, either in cash or by signing the check with your name and room number when the waiter presents it. Most resort hotels are still run on the American plan, because guests generally stay continuously until they leave. Virtually all city hotels are now run on the European plan, because the guests eat many of their meals elsewhere, and prefer to pay the hotel only for what they actually use.

PRAIRIE CROPS GET JUMP ON GRASSHOPPERS

OTTAWA, June 29—Prairie crops got a jump ahead of the grasshoppers during the general rains and dull skies of the past two weeks but the western grasshopper situation continues to be serious, H. G. Crawford, chief of the agriculture department's field crops insects investigation said today.

Infestation of grasshoppers this year is spread over the widest area in the history of the west but the recent moisture situation has provided some encouragement, according to Mr. Crawford. Five years ago the west saw its worst 'hopper scourge, when the whole area affected was smaller but the seriously infested acreage was more extended.

Continued moisture of the past two weeks has speeded crop growth at critical period, while the temperamental young grasshoppers, inactive in dull or damp weather, however, remained comparatively out of the picture. When the warm, dry weather does arrive, the fresh, green crops now will be that much better able to survive attack.

Meanwhile control measures are being applied intensively across the west in campaigns organized by the provincial governments. This effect will tend to minimize loss from the eighth successive grasshopper outbreak to be faced by western wheat farmers since 1932.

INTERCHANGE OF NEWS WITHIN EMPIRE NEED

LONDON, June 29—The Australian section of the Empire Press Union today presented to the union annual conference a memorandum stressing an unprecedented need for interchange of news so that the peoples of each part of the empire would know more of each other's lives, problems and ideals.

The conference also heard, in a paper prepared by the chairman of the Canadian section, J. H. Woods of Calgary, of the importance of setting up simple machinery for intercommunication between the various sections of the union.

The Australian section declared realization of the interchange objective might best be attained by:

1. Special preference for the presentation of empire news and views.
2. Introduction of a low press rate for background news.
3. Appointment by individual newspapers and groups of special representatives in each principal section of the empire.

New York Exchange Remains Open For Trade On Saturdays

NEW YORK, June 29—The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange today voted to keep the exchange open for business Saturdays during July and August, despite the fact large New York city banks last week decided to close Saturdays during the summer.

The exchange said the "big board" was a national institution and that approximately 85 per cent or more of the public business of its members originated outside New York city.

FAMILY PLEADS WITH ROOSEVELT ON BROKEN TIES

LOS ANGELES, June 28—Two members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. John McNeil, which has been broken up by deportation, have addressed appeals to President Roosevelt.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil, deported as indigent aliens, were en route by train to Jersey City, where they will take a boat for Halifax.

With them are a daughter, Mildred, 18, and a son, Jack, 6. Another Canadian-born daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lofton, 19-year-old expectant mother, also has been ordered deported, but has been permitted to remain temporarily.

Four other daughters, refused admittance to Canada because they might become government charges, remained here—and two wrote letters, on cheap notepaper, to the president.

Marjorie, who will be 14 next month, wrote that her father had been very sick in Canada and was ordered to a warmer climate for his health.

Colleen, eight, in a childish scrawl, added that "We want our mother and daddy back with us and hope you will do what you can to bring us all together again."

Girl Born With Spine Extension

GRAND FORKS, B.C., June 29—A young Doukhobor woman living near here has given birth to a female child reported to have an extension of the spinal column, similar to a tail, of about five inches.

The child, otherwise, appears to be normal.

"Yes, it is in the nature of a tail," said Dr. R. A. Seymour, assistant superintendent, Vancouver General hospital.

"We all have tails.

"There is a very small vertebra called the 'coccyx' at the base of the spine, and evidently in the case of this Doukhobor child, nature has added to it."

They're Preparing To Sail The Sea

—By Bulletin Staff Photographer

They haven't the nautical swagger that is so characteristic of deep-sea sailors, but the Warriors' Unit of the Edmonton Sea Cadets know their nautical terms and knots. Shown above are members of the unit watching Ed. Willis tying a knot. The picture was taken Wednesday evening at the Prince of Wales armories, where the cadets meet regularly each week for physical and seamanship instructions. Shown from left to right are: Chief Petty Officer Charles Mann, instructor; Les Frame, Jack Bell, D. Townson, Ed. Willis, Joe Leitch, Stuart Reid and Jack Coulson

Edmonton Sea Cadets Go Through Paces At Drill

More than 50 members of the Warrior Corps of the Edmonton Sea Cadets snapped smartly through formation and physical training drills at the Prince of Wales Armories Wednesday night as they held their regular weekly assembly for instructions in seamanship under Chief Petty Officer Instructor Charles Mann.

The young cadets are taught all possible phases of seamanship that they can learn without actually spending a training period on board a man-o'-war. Instruction includes the tying of simple knots such as bends and hitches, the use of a compass, the rule of the road, lead and line and drill in signals, helm and steering and other important subjects pertaining to the sea.

CERTIFICATES

First aid is another phase of study taken up by the cadet and last year 18 members of the corps received their primary certificates while the cadet team entered in the Wallace Nesbitt competition, a Dominion-wide first aid contest, gave a very creditable showing.

TRAINING AT LAKE

Annual training camp of the Sea Cadets will be held at Sylvan Lake this year and about 50 boys are expected to attend. The advance party will leave Edmonton July 22, with the remainder of the corps leaving on the following day for the camp site.

At the camp the cadets are given a more thorough grounding in seamanship and are able to put a lot of their experience gained during the fall, winter and spring to practical use.

YEGGS BLAST OFFICE SAFE: $800 STOLEN

Maple Leaf Petroleums Safe Cracked Open By Experts

Expert cracksmen blasted the door off the safe in the offices of the Maple Leaf Petroleums, Limited, 10521 105 avenue, early Thursday morning and escaped with more than $800 in cash and cheques.

The break-in was discovered with company employees arriving on the scene shortly after 7 a.m. found the lock smashed on the front door and the office a shambles. The safe had been soaped and covered with wet blankets to deaden the detonation of the nitro-glycerine used to blast it open.

Police were summoned to the scene, Detective Sergeant Bert Petheram being assisted in his investigations by Detective Murdo Munro and Detective Chris Shaw, fingerprint expert.

Police described the job as the work of experts, saying that it showed the men responsible were experienced. Detective Shaw picked up some fingerprints but it will not be known whether they will be clues to the identity of the cracksmen until later Thursday.

So expert were the cracksmen in deadening the sound that police were unable to find anyone living near the plant who could remember having heard any strange noises or sounds of an explosion during the night.

The premises were checked by prowler car officers about 4 a.m. and were okay then, police officials declared, placing the time of the blasting at about 5 a.m. The acrid fumes of the explosion still hung in the office when police arrived there shortly after 7 a.m. they said.

Through The Mill

That man was there again in police court Thursday and so was his wife, with the result that everybody put in an hilarious half-hour listening to comedy that would make even the hottest program you ever heard sound flat.

"He beat me and treated me so badly I had to leave him," alleged the 44-year-old wife.

"She used to chase me all over the street," replied her husband.

"Huh, you don't have to chase that man, you just swat him and he runs," she comes back quick as a hungry mosquito.

"She beat up my friend, too," he says.

"Sure I beat him up. I slugged him with a poker after he hit me. All he does is hang around there and help my husband with his bootlegging business."

"How old is your husband?" asks Mr. Purvis, the crown prosecutor.

"He is 64," she says.

"It's a lie," pipes up her husband. "I'm only 63."

"I understand that you drink a lot," countered the lawyer for the defence.

"Not nearly as much as I used to when I was helping him with his bootlegging business. THE STUFF was there so I just used to drink too much of it," she replies. "All he keeps around that house is trouble makers and he won't let me stay there."

By this time Magistrate Millar was getting tired of trying not to laugh so he adjourned the hearing—the charge was non-support—until Saturday.

• • •

A young man found that crime doesn't pay. And he learned the hard way. The total proceeds from his venture into the shady side of life was about $44, realized from the passing of five cheques bearing the forged signature of Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer. For that sum he lost his reputation and will spend the next year working buckshee — for the government at Fort Saskatchewan jail.

Provincial Board Of Examinations To Check Papers

Adjustment will be made of any injustices to students arising out of Grade XII examination papers, it was announced Thursday by the provincial examinations board. This announcement followed protests voiced at a meeting of the Edmonton public school board.

Two questions which students did not attempt to write in the trigonometry paper are said to have drawn the strongest criticisms.

The examinations board officials stated that the examination papers would be carefully studied and if found too long, or too difficult, steps to adjust same would be taken. Any injustices would be remedied and students' interests would be safeguarded.

Gun Registration

Friday is the deadline for the registration of revolvers, it was announced at city police headquarters Thursday. More than 850 revolvers have been registered to date and after July 1 all persons in possession of unregistered small arms will be liable for prosecution.

Vacation is two weeks in the year you spend the remainder of it resting up from.

Pretty Pillow Top— A Pleasure to Weave

Use Strips of Old Stockings

Weave it easily from old silk stockings—of beige or coppery tones. [illegible] A simple hand loom [illegible] very little.

For the warp use ordinary twine. Fasten one end to a notch 1 inch from upper left hand corner of loom (X in diagram). Then wind twine around notches, going back and forth [illegible].

[illegible] stockings lengthwise [illegible] 3 inches wide. Fold raw edges under, making strips about [illegible] wide. Now to weave! Fasten a strip to loom at Y, weave over and under twine as the diagram shows. Push rows of weaving close together, hiding the twine—and quickly you have a beautiful pillow top.

You can weave just as pretty things on homemade looms. On an embroidery hoop weave adorable doilies from bias binding tape. With a few pins, a bit of cardboard, make a loom on which you weave a dainty [illegible] from soutache braid.

Coronado Woman Marks Ninetieth Birthday In Good Health, Spirits

CORONADO, Alta., June 29.—Still hale and vigorous, the idol of her family, and still insisting on actively carrying on household duties, cooking, knitting and sewing as she did in her earlier days in Quebec and in the west, Madame Marie Susie Gagnon, "Grandmere" to a host of relatives and admiring friends, celebrated her 90th birthday Thursday.

While birthday party preparations went on around her and a steady stream of callers paid their respects, Mme. Gagnon, who now makes her home with her daughter, Mme. A. W. Mathieu here, recalled early days in Quebec when she worked in the fields, being paid 25 cents an acre for cutting wheat by hand in the summer time, and doing housework for $2 a month during the winter.

GOOD DAYS

"They were good days, though," she said contentedly. Born at St Urbain, Quebec, Mme. Gagnon came west in 1904 and with her husband settled in the Coronado district. There were eight children of the union, two of them sons, living at Opal, near Coronado, and one son Joe, at Spirit River. Mrs Mathieu is the fourth surviving member of the family, the other three daughters having died. Her husband also died in 1932. He was one of the pioneers of the Opal and Coronado districts and highly respected.

Scores of friends from far and near in the surrounding district called on Mme Gagnon Thursday, and for them all she had a bright smile and happy words. She insisted on taking her part in the cooking and other preparations and was the toast of the party at the festivities which marked the day.

GENERAL RAIN STATED NEED PEACE RIVER

Grain in the Peace River district is in good condition and cutworm damage is decreasing, according to the crop report of the Northern Alberta Railways for the week previous to June 28, released Thursday on authority of J. M. MacArthur, general manager.

Weather at Dawson Creek has been showery but general rain is badly needed in some parts of the district.

Pouce Coupe reports showery weather, but general rain would be welcome. About 50 per cent of the crops are in excellent condition; 25 per cent in fairly good condition, and 25 per cent badly in need of rain and damaged by worms.

Weather has been unsettled and showery with moisture conditions fair, at Hythe. Grain is growing fast and is in excellent condition.

Beaverlodge weather has been warmer with local showers. More rain would be beneficial as considerable damage is being done by worms.

From other parts of the area somewhat similar reports have been received.

EX-SERVICEMEN ASKING PROBE RELIEF WORK

Married Ex-servicemen's Association named a committee consisting of their president, Sidney Bowcott, and their secretary, C. Nixon, to interview city commissioners and find out whether unemployed were being used to do work which would ordinarily be done by the engineering department's maintenance men.

It was alleged at the meeting held in the Memorial hall Wednesday afternoon that it was not uncommon for relief recipients to find themselves working side-by-side with city maintenance men. A resolution requesting that relief recipients be paid regular rates when they perform duties ordinarily done by maintenance workers, was passed.

A request that the organization join forces with the Unemployed Married Men's Association was refused, but the meeting decided that they would co-operate with the U. M. M. A. on all questions in which they were both interested, but did not wish to lose their separate identity.

It was also decided to request the city for permission to hold a tag day.

NATIONAL UNIT NOT MILITARY LEADERS AVER

Unity Party Purely Political and Not Fascist—Organized Here

That the National Unity Party of Canada is purely political and not military in scope, and that while it might be termed Canadian National Socialist, it is not Fascist in intent, and has no international tie-ups, is the contention of David E. Hartmann, formerly of Westlock, but now of Edmonton, and M. K. Springer of 19 Raymond hotel, South Edmonton, provincial secretary and organizer of the new party now making its appearance in Edmonton.

Taking exception to a story that their recent meeting was secret, Hartmann admitted that invitation was by ticket, but said that he has only "made the ticket system after I saw Chief Shute and Commissioner Hancock of the R.C.M.P. and they had agreed that only in this way could we be sure of having no disturbance."

NO SECRECY

"Tickets were issued all right," said Hartmann, "but there was no secrecy and we didn't even ask for tickets at the door, and no names and addresses were taken."

Although the membership form which applicants are asked to sign calls for particulars of age, weight, height, and military service record, and also for particulars of cars, trucks or motorcycles owned by applicants which they are willing to place at the disposal of the party, both Hartmann and Springer state that these particulars have nothing to do with "mobilization plans".

"We only want these particulars for speedy organization purposes; there is nothing military about it. It is quite obvious they are for lawful political purposes and any idea that they are for use as mobilization or conscription forms or for military classification is absolutely a misconception" said a statement prepared by Hartmann and Springer.

Hartmann is well known in the Westlock district, but Springer has only recently appeared as organizer here.

LOYALTY TO ARCAND

Loyalty to the party leader, Adrien Arcand of Quebec is a requisite of membership, said Springer, but he insists that the movement is a "plain all-Canadian affair, and nothing to do with anything else."

Mimeographed sheets distributed by Hartmann in organization work say that the new organization must pick its members, who "have to be fearless, positive, tireless and constructive".

The same paper also makes a plea to "Let us clean house—from Jewmocracy — also from the 'Somebody' who controls more or less us and our daily press."

"We do not want alms, No. But before it is too late we want your sacrifice, offering, gift; spiritually, physically and financially" is the plea made in the Hartmann paper.

Both men claim that since Edmonton papers published stories of their activities they are finding it difficult to rent halls to carry on their organization work.

"They seem to be afraid. Maybe we will have to call a meeting in the market Square," said Springer.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the party is open only to "Gentile British subjects" and the members take a vow to be "loyal to the leadership of the National Unity Party of Canada and to observe and be bound by all the rules of the party.

Hartmann and Springer both speak with a guttural accent and in the former's manifesto he sets out that he "came out of Russia where the doctrine of the Jew, Karl Marx, is practised."

Hartmann claims to have seen in Canada the same sinister forces at work as in Russia, which he blames on the "Jewmocracy."

Applicants to the new party are asked to state, with full details, if they are "a member of a trade union, political party, society or other organization" and also to say if they are "willing to participate in organization work on the following committees: contacts, legions, propaganda or transport, in the capacity of organizer, secretary, treasurer, clerk, stenographer, orator, typist, writer, chauffeur, etc.

"Have you any other special abilities? State the work you are ready to do," are also questions asked on the application blank, which is printed in both English and French.

Golfers Away

The Check-Over

The Roundup

IT'S 'out drivers and sock 'em a mile" today at the Calgary Golf and Country Club as the amateur golfers of Alberta play the qualifying round of the championship tourney—but as usual it will probably be shorter iron shots and putting that will decide the new champion.

No less than 16 Edmontonians are entered in the title chase according to word last night from Calgary. Bob Procter of Mayfair is there defending the championship which he won last year and Bob rates as the shotmaker who must be beaten.

Henry Martell from the Highlands, as steady a match play golfer as there is in the province, also looms up as one of the giants of the Edmonton [illegible]. Then there is [illegible] John Starky who is still likely to bust [illegible] the top of [illegible] cutting. Long-driving Ted West of Mayfair is another from here. Lack of big time experience is Ted's great [illegible] at present. [illegible] Savage of hockey fame is also there and a tough guy for anybody to stop. Bill Broadfoot is another seasoned player who can lay [illegible] crisp and clean. Jack Hear, L. Greer, Cliff Eckersley, M. H. Stewart and Dave Milne are other Edmontonians entered in the senior division.

Calgary is high on the chances of 17-year-old Johnny Richardson to cop the title. He attended the University of Southern California last winter and improved his game greatly there. He carded a 69 on the par 70 layout in a practice round yesterday. Duane Barr, three times open champ of Calgary, is another favorite who should command big money in the pool. Henry Martell toured the course twice on Wednesday and had 71 each trip.

However the northern section has another hot favorite in big Jimmy Hogan of Jasper, the lad who won the Alberta junior title last year and then went on to take the dominion crown. He's over the junior age this year and the senior division has profound respect for his ability.

Strong Junior Brigade

THE junior championship will be decided today. It is 33 holes of medal play. A number of juniors are also competing in the senior division [illegible] qualifying round. [illegible]

Edmonton has a strong brigade seeking junior honors. The two Jennings brothers from the Highlands, Bryan and Ken, lead the squad. Glen Gray is another who will be closely watched. He started his golf career in Calgary, then moved to Ontario and came to Edmonton this spring. Gordon Milne and A. Nugent are two other Edmonton juniors competing.

However Johnny Richardson of Calgary is still a junior and he accordingly dominates this division as the top flight favorite. It is not [illegible] that he may be eliminated for he has a lot of able [illegible]

JOE LOUIS

"Dat white boy sure hits like hell. It was one of the toughest fights I ever had."

Champ Admits Two-Ton Was Toughest Foe

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 29.—They've called Joe Louis a dead-panned sphinx, but in his dressing room last night just after he had defended his title for the seventh time, he looked a lot more like a tired kid who had just been in a tiff with a truck.

Sweat pouring off his kinky head, Joe regained his composure that was rudely shattered some few minutes earlier when he had to pick himself up off the resined floor, to pay a nice compliment to the "toughest" foe he has ever fought — rugged Tony Galento.

"Boy, he sure hits hard," the champion breathed as a crowd of newspapermen put on a tussle of their own to edge close enough in the steaming [illegible] quarters to gather the champion's words.

Joe averred, with some prompting, that this was probably the hardest fight of his career and that "it was just the kind of a fight I knowed it would be."

And he thought that the belt he took in the first round—a sweeping left hook—was harder than the left that floored him in the third. He excused that slip by saying that it was a good blow, but that he was off balance.

Montreal Star Upsets Net Dope

MONTREAL, June 29.—[illegible] of Montreal, assumed the role of giant killer Wednesday when he eliminated Big Bill Pigott of Hamilton from singles play in the Quebec provincial tennis championships.

[illegible] defeated [illegible] inson of Stamford, Ont., Tuesday, swept aside the University of Toronto player 4-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0 to score the only upset of the quarter-final round.

He qualified to meet Don McDiarmid, of Ottawa, who outclassed young Roger Durivage of Montreal for a 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1 victory. The other half of the bracket will be filled by Laird Watt of Montreal, defending champion, and Bruce Hall of T[illegible]

Watt gave a polished exhibition to oust veteran Roland Longtin of Montreal 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 while Hall turned aside Joe O'Hara, Montreal, 6-3, [illegible], 6-8, 6-3.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, June 29.—A wild assortment of fistic bombs burst on this ball park last night, but as usual Joe Louis' were the more explosive and the Brown Bomber defended his world heavyweight championship by smashing pudgy Tony Galento into bloody helplessness in four rounds.

Although floored himself in the third round of this scheduled 15-rounder, after having put the roly-poly pounder down in the second, Louis came on with an amazing assault of punching fury in the fourth.

Referee Arthur Donovan finally had to stop the proceedings at 2:29 of that heat.

He intervened as Galento, no longer the shouting, boasting barkeeper, fell to his knees and wrapped his arms around the referee's knees, his face beaten to a pulp, and blood streaming from eyes and mouth.

Wild-Slugging, Tough Battle

But while it lasted, it was one of the wildest slugging and toughest battles the champion has had since he won the title from old Jim Braddock two years ago this month. Unafraid of the vaunted Louis dynamite the short, squat Galento rushed in with his tree-like left arm flailing, and actually had the champion hanging on from two fearful smashes to the chin in the first round.

But Tony turned the tables in the third, charged in, and shot a short right uppercut to the chin and a left to the mid-section which suddenly and amazingly dropped Louis to the seat of his pants, also for a two-count in mid-ring. The champion got up and managed to stave off the Galento rush the rest of the round. With that Tony's hopes ended.

At that point, Galento was within one punch of the world heavyweight championship. Had he been able to land one solid smash when the Tan Terror came up off the floor, had he been able to charge in and connect with Louis in his dazed condition, he would have climaxed one of the most amazing rises fistiana has ever seen. But he just didn't have it.

So Joe came out in the fourth round ready to toss his thunder. For a few seconds, they fought on even terms. Then Louis proved his ring greatness. He moved in with the grace and rhythm of a perfect machine, and opened up. In just a moment he had Galento back against the ropes. He smashed over left, right, left and right again to Tony's jaw and head. Each punch seemed to open a new stream of blood from Tony's face.

Blood-and-Thunder Assault

Momentarily Referee Donovan separated them, but Louis charged forward again. This time he backed the challenger against the ropes on another side of the ring, but still near the Galento corner. Joe pumped both death-dealing fists into Tony's face more times than an adding machine could tally them and this blood-and-thunder assault proved too much for the game Galento.

He staggered out of the milling. He reeled about five steps, half-blinded and bleeding. Finally slumped to his knees, making a vain effort to keep himself upright by wrapping his short, fat arms around Donovan, he was completely helpless.

But, despite the beating he took, Tony only took time to get back to his dressing room before shouting for a return match.

"If they (his handlers) had let me fight my own fight I never would have been cut," he roared, but his roar was somewhat weaker than the "I'll moider dat bum" with which he had shouted his defiance of Louis during his training period.

"I want a return fight in September," he added. "I'll get him."

His most serious injury appeared to be a cut over the left eye, but there was also a nasty cut on his mouth.

Louis, on the contrary, hardly had his hair mussed, but he was plenty respectful of Tony's trip-hammer punching.

"Dat white boy hits like hell," he said in his dressing room. "But I'll tell you, he hurt me more in the first round than when he floored me in the third. It was one of the toughest fights I've ever had."

And Louis Wasn't Kidding

Louis wasn't kidding. Those two left hand shots he took on the [illegible] as he backed into a neutral corner in the first session were [illegible] as murderous as any he has ever absorbed, not excluding the right hand [illegible] with which Max Schmeling knocked him out three years ago, nor the right with which Braddock floored him a year later.

With Galento out of the way, there appears no heavyweight active today who can stand in the way of the dark champion's claim to greatness [illegible] at the top of the fistic heap. Lou Nova was regarded after Galento as the outstanding challenger, but the young Californian, rated off his recent victory over Max Baer, is not ready to withstand Joe's punching power.

With seven successful defences of the prize ring's richest prize, the 25-year-old Louis stands alone in all heavyweight history. No champion, not even Sullivan or Corbett or Fitzsimmons or even Dempsey ever held the belting bauble for more than five successful trips to the ring.

With last night's victory, Louis has taken exactly 15 rounds of action to polish off the half dozen futile challenges to his crown.

Fight by Rounds

The round by round description of the Louis-Galento bout follows:

During Donovan's instructions to the fighters in mid-ring he had to spend some time wiping the crease from both fighters.

ROUND ONE

Galento came out in a crouch and both sparred. Galento landed a light left to the ear as he charged in. Louis tapped Tony twice. Galento landed three hard lefts to Louis' chin in a neutral corner and the champion held on. Tony rocked Joe with a right to the head. Galento moved in but missed two left hooks. Louis bounced a right off the challenger's forehead. Galento connected with lefts to the body and eye. Joe missed a hard right hook. Galento clipped Joe with a right to the side of the face. Louis seemed afraid to open up. Another Galento left smashed on the champion's mouth.

They both connected with lefts. Louis shook Tony with a hard right and then both mixed punches in close. Galento held Louis around the neck and landed three short lefts.

Galento's round.

ROUND TWO

Between rounds Galento's handlers administered to a cut on Tony's upper lip. Louis shot a straight left and took a left to the face. The champion smashed Tony with a hard right to the ear. A left hook staggered Tony. Louis banged left and right to the head in close quarters. Louis backed off from Tony's rush and landed left and right. Another right dropped Tony [illegible]

The champion hit Galento with a smashing right to the eye and then hit him at will. Tony, however, kept coming in close. Louis was the aggressor now and Tony's face was bleeding from the punishment. Tony hung around Joe's neck as they moved around the ring. Louis smashed a left to the body. Tony was floored from a right and left to the face [illegible] with no count and hung on as Louis tried to finish him. They [illegible] in a neutral corner at the bell.

ROUND THREE

Between rounds Tony's handlers worked overtime to close his wounds. Louis [illegible] a straight left off the mouth and another to the chin meantime staying out of reach of Tony's [illegible]. They clinched and Tony's head banged against Joe's jaw. Each landed a left to the face. Joe sent Galento's head back with a hard left. A right [illegible] the inside floored Louis but he was up with no count. Tony was on him and landed a left hook to the head. Joe then hung on momentarily.

Tony landed a left to the face and took a right to the jaw in return. Tony missed with a left and Joe's left [illegible] on the chin. Tony [illegible] Joe with both hands in a neutral corner and Joe hung on momentarily at the bell.

ROUND FOUR

It appeared that Tony had landed both left and right in flooring Louis in the third round. Tony charged in and the champion clinched. Louis landed two light lefts. Tony smashed a left to the side of the face and in close mauled the champion. Louis landed a left but was short with a [illegible] opened a cut there. Joe shot left and right to the face and Tony was hurt. Tony landed a light left and then caught three rights to his face which had him staggering [illegible]

Louis backed Tony against the ropes and hit him with both hands at will. He shot lefts and rights to the face and Galento fell away from the ropes and dropped to his knees helpless, hanging on to the referee in his own corner as Louis won by a technical knockout in two minutes, 29 seconds of the fourth round.

Tony Figures His Handlers Are to Blame

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 29.—Tony Galento, looking all of two tons and very sad besides, sat hunched forward on a dressing room table last night, an ice pack to his right eye and his thick, blood-smeared lips muttering:

"If they'd only let me fight my kinda fight, he never woulda cut me. Rush him, wear him down, punch for punch—he couldn't take a punch. Rough and tumble, that's my kinda fight."

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

Outside, in the ball park, some 35,000 customers still were insisting that the Orange (N.J.) bar-keep had put up a whale of a fight for four rounds against heavyweight champion Joe Louis. Manager Joe Jacobs, too, disagreed with Tony.

"You fought the right fight, Tony, only you should have stayed in that crouch. When you straightened up, that's when he nailed you," said Joe.

"Who nailed me?" roared Galento. "He just pushed me, that's all. Pushed me when I was off balance.

"I got somethin' in my eyes, I couldn't see," muttered Tony, hiding his eyes, the left one with a sharp gash on the upper eyelid, the right puffy, from the glare of exploding flash-light bulbs.

"HE'S GOOD, ALL RIGHT"

"He's good, all right, but he isn't all they say he is," the husky challenger went on, as Whitey Bimstein continued to clean his cuts. "Hell, K.O. Christner hit me harder. And that punch I knocked him down with, that was just a light left hook. There wasn't much on it. But I got something in my eyes. I took more punches than I should have. I wanta fight him again."

"Sure we do," chimed in Yussel the Muscle, "we'll fight him again in September. We'll take that Nova (Lou Nova, California contender) too. Why, Tony will break him in half."

Outside the dressing room door Tony's wife was nearly in tears. She got to the dressing room ahead of her husband, but was turned back with a "no ladies allowed"

Medicine Hat Ace Wins District Golf Crown

CALGARY, June 29.—Frank Mulholland, ace golfer from Medicine Hat, turned on flashes of sub-par golf on the last nine to defeat George Wood of Stettler two up and win the Alberta country districts golf championship Wednesday. Mulholland was down three at the halfway mark of the 36-hole final.

Mulholland, eight times Medicine Hat club champion, who lost to Gordon Savage of Edmonton in the 41-hole 1937 Alberta district final, turned in three birdies on the last nine to finish the afternoon round with 72, two over par, which was 14 strokes better than his morning 18-hole round. Wood's scores were 79 and 82 for the match.

The Stettler district champion, in the final for the first time, never was behind until the 35th hole. On two occasions he was four up on his opponent.

The veteran Mulholland fought back to square the match on the 30th green and again on the 34th. He took the last three holes.

Most brilliant streak in his play came at the 29th and 30th greens where he trimmed par for a birdie two and birdie four, respectively. His third birdie, a two count on the 35th put Mulholland one up. He won the 36th with a par four when Wood drove into the rough.

At the conclusion Col. J. H. Woods presented the Calgary Daily Herald trophy to the champion.

H. Gillespie, Lacombe district champion, won the consolation prize.

NEW CLUB APPLIES FOR INT-AM PUCK FRANCHISE

Indianapolis Seeking Minor Hockey Team

By VINCENT HONAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 29.—A surprise application from Indianapolis, Ind., for an International-American Hockey League franchise for the 1939-40 season scrambled the agenda of the league governor's meeting Wednesday and a decision on the matter was postponed two weeks.

The Int.-Am. moguls were ready to draft a schedule for the present eight-team two-section league when the Indianapolis application was tossed into the arena. It was backed by James Norris, Louis Giffels and Arthur Worth, owners of Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League, with which the new team would be affiliated.

"A preliminary survey of the application indicates a strong possibility the franchise will be granted," said Maurice Podoloff of New Haven, Int.-Am. president, after the meeting.

MEET AGAIN JULY 11

"Unlimited funds are behind the proposition," he added, pointing out that Indianapolis is a thriving city with a population of 400,000 and an arena capable of seating 11,000 persons.

Definite action on the application will be taken July 11, he said, when the governors meet again. A request for a Buffalo franchise for the 1940-41 season will also be decided at that time.

Also up for discussion at the July 11 meeting will be the status of the Springfield club in which Eddie Shore, Boston Bruins star defenceman, has shown interest. The club got into financial difficulties last year and is currently operated by the league through an independent corporation.

Meantime the governors of the National Hockey League met independently to examine committee reports on the current working agreements between the N.H.L. and affiliated leagues.

THROW OUT PROPOSALS

The N.H.L. governors threw out some changes proposed by the Int.-Am. League in the five-year working agreement between the two leagues.

Principal proposed modifications rejected were: A suggestion to increase the present draft price of $3,750 for Int.-Am. players going to the senior pro loop; and a rule to make player loans by the N.H.L. to Int.-Am. clubs immune from recall. The proposals were sent back to a committee for further discussion and no further action will be taken until the next meeting of the N.H.L. governors, probably late in August.

The agreement between the N.H.L. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was renewed without change.

CONACHER GOES BACK

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings said the Wings would not take advantage of their option on Charley Conacher, the big right winger they obtained from Toronto Maple Leafs last season. At that time it was announced the $16,000 purchase price would be paid in three annual instalments, provided the Wings felt they wanted Conacher after his first season in a Wing uniform.

Trochu Will Stage Dominion Day Sport Meet On Saturday

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

TROCHU, June 29.—Advertised as "the best sports day in central Alberta," Trochu's 13th annual Dominion Day celebration will be held here on Saturday, July 1, under the auspices of the Trochu B.P.O.E. lodge.

Headline attraction is a four-team baseball tournament between the Olds Elks, Drumheller Miners, Lorrington Aces and the Trochu All-Stars.

A softball game will be played between Ghost Pine, 1937 provincial men's champions (same lineup) and Florence. Children's races, novelty races of all kinds, bicycle races and model airplane races are other features.

International feeling cracks so much quicker than at councils. Royalty's visit consumed several days. But it took Sydney Woodcroft only a few minutes to lose a track meet.

Civics Beat Scots 3-1: In Playoff Tilt Saturday

FACING the team they must beat in Saturday's second round of the dominion playdowns, Civics edged out a 3-1 triumph against the Scottish last night at Clarke Stadium in the final game of the soccer league schedule. Civics' win last night had no bearing on the league standings as the Scona team had won the league schedule a few days ago.

However, it gave the soccer fans a fair idea of what they may expect when the Civics and Scots meet in the second round of the dominion playdowns here Saturday. The game proved a fine test for these two teams and showed that the Scots would be no easy touch for the Civics who are favorites to advance into the provincial final.

Civics were a little better on the attack and made good on some of their scoring opportunities. They faced stiff opposition, however, in McGlynn in the Scottish net who made some sparkling stops.

Johnson was the high scorer. He gave the Civics two goals in the first half to put his team ahead. The Scots should have scored at various times when they had Ness of the Civics evidently beaten, but poor marksmanship foiled them.

The second half was a much tighter affair. Both teams tightened up on their defensive play and got one score each. Skidmore sent in a beauty which beat McGlynn while at the other end Scott beat Ness from close range and the game ended with Civics nursing a 3-1 margin.

The Fisherman's Guide is a regular Bulletin sport page feature appearing every Thursday and bringing the most accurate and up to the minute information on conditions in the best fishing sections of the province.

JASPER PARK: Good catches have been made during the last few days at Beaver and Medicine lakes. Grayling are still biting well in Pyramid Lake. All fishing areas except Caledonia Creek, Cabin, Brazeau, Upper Geraldine Lake and Dorothy Lakes will be open after June 30. Rainbow fishing starts July 1. Speckled trout have been biting well in the Maligne area. Waters are at normal levels and clear. Cowichans, Indianas and Tacomas are the most effective spinners in use, while Black Gnats, Royal Coachman and Montreals in sizes 10 and 12 are favorite flies. Warmer weather promises a great improvement in park fishing conditions. All park roads are in fine shape.

EDSON: High roily waters in this area following very heavy rains have resulted in poor catches recently. These conditions prevail throughout the area embracing Bear Lake, Reflection Lake, Obed Lake, Shining Bank, Hornbeck Creek and Sundance Creek. Highways are fair, but district roads are muddy and heavy.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE: Farmers report fishing good at various points in this district, but outside parties can not get in at present owing to impassable country roads. Fine catches of trout are being made at Ricinus postoffice 40 miles south by residents there. Up to Tuesday it has rained every day for 24 days here. Ten inches of rain have fallen since May 1—eight inches falling in June.

RED DEER: The Red Deer river remains about as high as it was last week. Country roads are drying but are very rough at present. If no more rains fall, there may be some good fishing in this area by the week-end.

SLAVE LAKE BEACH: 162 miles north west of Edmonton on Peace River highway. Fly and troll fishing has been good recently. Cabins and boats available.

BANFF: Park waters will open for fishing on July 1. Indications are that good catches should be taken. Park roads and highway in good condition.

ARROWS DRUB UNIONS 15-3 JUNIOR CLASH

Belt Two Pitchers for 18 Hits; Get Four Extra Base Blows

Arrows, clubbing two Unions pitchers for 18 hits, four of them extra base blows, walloped the Unions by a 15-3 score last night at Renfrew Park. It was a scheduled Junior Baseball League clash and lifted the Arrows to a loftier perch in the junior loop.

For the greater part it was a comedy of errors. Unions were the greater offenders in misplays but the Arrows failed to show anything like their usual style, not that they needed power.

Milton Trann was the first Union pitcher to scurry to the showers. He was thoroughly shelled in 1 and 1-3 innings for six hits and as many runs. "Specks" MacDonald was the other Union hurler so heavily blasted.

Gordon Robbins, hitting four for four was the Arrow's best batter. He also had a two-base blow. Jack Carney was next with four hits in five trips and Carney [illegible] a triple. Jack McGill got the other distance blow, a homer with one mate on base.

Touring Teacher Scores Major Upset In Wimbledon Meet

CAST OF CHARACTERS

RONALD AND WILFRID, the golfers besieging Barbara.

Yesterday: Royalton learns the girl's name is Barbara Ganning. He decides to stay, posing as the chauffeur's cousin. The chauffeur's name is Baskerville. Royalton helps Barbara over the wall, is to meet her at 8 p.m.

CHAPTER III—(Continued)

J. Pemberton bounced up angrily. He appeared above the hedge, the ends of his mustache bristling and his graying locks matted by the flying water. With the blanket clinging to his shoulders he was not unlike an elderly bull walrus with a chill.

"Hi!" he shouted indignantly. "Stop that!"

He had spoken before looking. He now perceived that the cause of the commotion was a young man in a blue bathing suit whose hands flailed the sunlit surface of the pool in a superabundance of good spirits.

"Hi!" he exclaimed again. "What the devil are you doing?"

The young man looked up. He was not sure about the apparition on the other side of the hedge. It might be a walrus. But walruses, he knew, were uncommon in the vicinity. Accordingly, he ceased flailing in order to study the problem.

J. Pemberton Ganning delivered himself.

"If you're going to swim," he said irritably, "swim. But don't sit there throwing water around." He stopped, struck by a thought. "Hey, who are you, anyhow?"

The young man came out of the waters. J. Pemberton noted that he had gray eyes and a magnificent torso.

"I?" said this young man. "Oh, I — I'm — er — I'm Baskerville's cousin."

"Baskerville's cousin?" repeated J. Pemberton suspiciously. "I didn't know he had one."

"Well, he has," said the young man, toweling himself vigorously. "I'm it."

"Humph! What were you doing in my swimming pool?"

"Oh, is it yours?"

"It is," J. Pemberton stated belligerently.

The young man looked at the pool approvingly. "It's a darned good one too."

"Eh?"

"I said it was a good pool. You don't get one like this every day."

"I want to know," said J. Pemberton, "how you come to be here."

* * *

"Well, it's like this," the young man put on a blue-and-white striped dressing gown. "I happened to be passing so I thought I'd drop in on Baskerville, he being my cousin. And he suggested that I stay a night or two with him. So I did. I sleep over the garage."

"You do, eh? Who gave you permission?"

"Why, I think Baskerville got it from a young lady. A very pretty young lady with violet eyes."

"Hump! That would be my daughter."

"Oh, is she your daughter?"

"She is," said J. Pemberton, in a what-about-it tone.

"Well, you're very lucky," said the young man.

"How's that?"

"You're lucky to have such a delightful daughter."

"Ho, you think so?" J. Pemberton's eyes flashed ironically. "Let me tell you, my boy, you know nothing about it."

"No," Roy agreed. "I don't suppose I do."

"If you," said J. Pemberton, pursuing a favorite theme, "had a daughter who filled the house with imbeciles who look exactly alike, who play golf all over the lawn in the daytime and banjos all night, you wouldn't talk about luck."

"Does she do that?"

"Does she do what?"

"Play golf all day and banjos all night?"

"I didn't say she did. I said she brought in idiots who did. You're singularly obtuse, young man."

"Sorry. I only wanted to get it straight."

A suspicion struck J. Pemberton Ganning.

"You don't play a banjo, do you?" he asked dangerously.

"Me? Well—er—that is no."

Mr. Ganning looked relieved. "What do you do, then?"

"I—er—well . . .," Roy stopped, confused, then saw light. "I'm an evolutionist."

"What?" He was unprepared for the roar which escaped J. Pemberton Ganning.

"An evolutionist," he continued doubtfully. "You know, Darwin and—and—those fellows. I am a subscriber to the theory that man came upon this earth through a long series of—of, shall we say, incarnations, beginning with what is called an amoeba and ending, perhaps, with the anthropoid ape. Just how life itself got started I am unprepared to say . . ." He ceased, partly because he was out of ideas and partly because of J. Pemberton Ganning's face. Behind its mustaches that face was positively beaming.

"My dear sir," said J. Pemberton enthusiastically. "My dear sir, do you realize that you have just made the only intelligent remarks that have been made on these premises since—since the summer of 1927?" He paused, then came through with an amendment. "Except, of course, those which I have made myself."

CHAPTER IV

"GOSH," said Roy, "you don't mean it. What does that make me?"

J. Pemberton seemed surprised. "Make you? It doesn't make you anything. I thought you said you were an evolutionist. Well, a remark or two isn't going to make you anything different, is it?"

"I suppose not."

"Good. But this is really very fortunate. I didn't know Baskerville was so well connected."

"Oh, he's only an evolutionist's cousin," said Roy modestly.

"But think of it. Here I've had a man in my employ all this time whose cousin was an evolutionist. And I didn't know it."

"Well," said Roy negligently, "we don't talk very much in our family."

"Family? H'm. It must be a pretty good family if you've had so much education. Can't think why Baskerville's a chauffeur."

"Baskerville? Oh, he's the black sheep."

"Humph! Too bad. Well, young man, you've got a real treat in store for you. I'll show you my museum."

"You don't mean you've got a museum?"

J. Pemberton swelled visibly. "Haven't I, eh? Well, let me tell you that I've got a private museum with stuff in it that some of the universities and big museums would give their shirts to get hold of. For example"—his voice sank lower and his eyes glittered—"I've got one of the finest Gobi dinosaurs in the world."

"You have?" exclaimed Roy.

"I said I had. Come along. We'll go and see it now."

"Do you think I'd better," Roy asked, "in this costume?"

"My dear fellow!" J. Pemberton Ganning scoffed. "As if I care what you've got on. You can go about in Chinese pyjamas if you want to. The fact that you're interested in something vital is enough for me. Come along!"

* * *

They went across the lawn, J. Pemberton Ganning in his gray blanket giving somewhat the appearance of Sitting Bull on the march. As they neared the house, the overlord of the Gannings stopped suddenly and clutched Roy's arm.

"See that?" he asked, pointing excitedly.

Roy followed his finger. A youth had come around a corner of the house, a bullet-headed youth with brown hair. In one hand he carried a golf club and in the other a white cloth bag. Even as they looked, he opened the bag and allowed a number of golf balls to fall to the greensward. Then he gripped the club, took a stance and made a furious practice swing, lifting a fair-sized divot from the Ganning lawn.

"It's only . . ." began Roy, and stopped.

From the other side of the house there appeared a similar youth, attired exactly as the first and carrying the same impedimenta. This second youth put down his bag and glared across at the first. The first returned the glare with one of equal stoniness. And in those two sets of eyes there was little sympathy and understanding, an entire absence of brotherly love. The glares lasted a full minute. Then, as if declaring a mutual truce, they turned simultaneously to divot-taking.

"There you have it," said J. Pemberton Ganning hoarsely. "That's what I've got to put up with."

"They're only a couple of golfers," said Roy.

J. Pemberton looked at him pityingly.

"If that were all," he said, "I wouldn't mind. But"—he drove a fist into the palm of his other hand —"one of them's a banjo player and I mean to ferret out which it is after breakfast. And when I do, I'll throw him out on his ear and his banjo after him."

"Good stuff," said Roy approvingly.

And then a vision loomed up before them. It had on a light blue sports dress and black-and-white shoes. It floated—a thing like this, in the opinion of Mr. Roy Herring, didn't walk like mundane people—up to J. Pemberton Ganning and implanted a kiss somewhere in the region of the mustaches.

"Oh, um — good morning, my dear," said J. Pemberton. "I'm—er—this is a friend of mine; Mr.—ah—er—I forgot the name. Anyhow," he concluded triumphantly, "he's an evolutionist."

The vision looked at Roy and allowed one black-lashed lid to drop over an iris-colored eye. Then she gave him a smile that almost unseated his reason.

"Daddy's so bad at names," she said, holding out her hand. "How do you do, Mr. . . ."

"Herring," said Roy gravely. "I don't think I told your father."

But J. Pemberton Ganning was anxious to display the Gobi dinosaur.

"Come on, Mr. Herring," he said. "Barbara, tell those idiotic boys to go farther down the lawn. They'll be breaking windows where they are. Now then, Herring. This way."

As he followed, Roy threw a glance over his shoulder. The vision stood looking after them and her eyes seemed to be laughing. He hoped he didn't look too ridiculous in his striped dressing-gown.

Breakfast, which Roy had obtained by slipping around to the kitchen after viewing Mr. Ganning's museum, was over. And now, having substituted sports clothes for the bathing costume, the younger of the two evolutionists lurked in the vicinity of the garage, his mind occupied with several problems which needed immediate attention. First and foremost, he perceived that if he were to continue as persona grata above the garage, he must improve his rather sketchy knowledge of evolution. Either that or consistently dodge J. Pemberton Ganning. His next problem was to see Barbara. But even as he gazed across the lawn he found this one being solved rapidly. She was approaching with speed, a goddess in a blue dress, and in her hand was something that flashed and glittered. She came up out of breath.

He gaped at it. "Why—er—what the devil . . ."

Barbara seized his arm and shook it. "Don't be stupid. Take it up to your room and hide it quickly. Father's on the warpath."

Mr. Herring grasped the situation with admirable celerity. He did as bidden and returned. "Well, that's that," Barbara said, with relief. "The evidence is buried. Wilfrid was fool enough to play that thing under father's window last night and it kept father awake. He's holding an inquisition at the breakfast table now."

"I see. How did you get the banjo?"

"Took it out of Wilfrid's room. I was afraid father would brain him with it."

"Won't he own up to having played it?"

"Wilfrid own up? Not much. He lied like a trooper. He said he didn't even own a banjo. And then Ron saw a chance to get in soft and cramp Wilfrid's style, so he spoke up and said of course Wilfrid had a banjo. And Wilfrid said he was a liar and they nearly had a fight right at the table. But father said he guessed they were both liars, which is pretty true when you come right down to it. And after breakfast, he's going to conduct a search."

"And if he finds it in my room?" asked Roy.

"Oh, he doesn't connect you with it. He won't look over the garage."

"Even if he does, I'll be all right."

"I don't understand." Barbara looked puzzled.

"Well, I can't afford to take any chances," said Roy comfortably. "So I put it under Baskerville's bed."

Ontario Uncovers Mastodon Tusk

Workmen digging into a clay bank while doing restoration work on old Fort George, near Niagara-On-The-Lake, Ont., unearthed a nine-foot tusk, believed to be a relic of the days when mastodons tramped the marshes of southern Ontario. The curved piece of yellowed ivory is being shipped to the Royal Ontario Museum, in Toronto. At top, L. Sternberg of the museum staff is pictured preparing the relic for shipment to the museum. C. W. Dare, seen holding shovel, lower left, was the worker who first discovered the tusk. He reported his find to H. B. Stewart, right, foreman in charge of the restoration work, who summoned authorities. Pieces of the crumbled bone attached to the tusk are being examined by Miss Margaret Way of Kingston, Ont., lower right, who is working on the government restoration project.

Our Old Country Letter — By J. E. Norcross

LONDON, Eng.—(By Air Mail)—At this time of writing it is early June, but it might be the dog-days to judge by the weather we are enjoying. Day after day the sun blazes down from cloudless skies. Day after day "the winds and sunbeams, with their convex gleams, build up the blue dome of air." The forecasters feebly prophesy rain, but no rain comes. Records for June temperatures are broken here and there every day, as also those for hours of sunshine. The thermometer creeps well up the eighties at a time of the year when it usually has a struggle to get out of the sixties.

J. E. Norcross

Otherwise, however, there is no mistaking that it is June and not late July or August. There was plenty of rain in the first months of the year and the heat has brought the greatest profusion of blossom known in a decade.

The hedgerows are white with the hawthorn, and the meadows are golden with buttercups. Bluebells abound in the woods. The chestnuts are in the full glory of their pink and white candles. Lilac and laburnum hang over garden walls in town and village wherever one goes. Cuckoo, lark and nightingale are in full song.

It is all very beautiful, especially to eyes which have not for many years seen an English lane with its foxgloves and honeysuckle (but they will come a little later, when the cowslips have gone and the primroses are but a memory), and I did not wonder that a British Columbian of my acquaintance who had not been "home" since the war and who has arrived just at the right moment, became almost speechless in his delight and joy.

But every silver lining has a cloud and if this, which we call a drought over here, continues much longer the hay harvest will be poor and the fruit crop which, granted the needed moisture, promises to be one of the best ever harvested, will go west.

The term "drought", by the way, needs a little explanation. In reality there is nothing in present meteorological conditions that can properly be called a drought. Visitors from countries where they have real droughts, sometimes of the seven-year order, laugh at our use of the word.

Really it is a scientific expression. Half-a-century ago, G. J. Symons, F.R.S., founder of the British Rainfall Organization, used it to denote a period of fifteen or more consecutive days on none of which the precipitation amounted to 100th of an inch. Dry spells of two or three weeks are common enough in England despite the Frenchman's definition of an English summer, "three fine days and a thunderstorm," or our own ironic, "Yes, summer was on Tuesday that year."

Mr. Symons meant his "drought" to be used in a purely technical way, but the newspapers got hold of it and now England is "suffering from drought" whenever fifteen days go by without a slight shower. This happens, on an average, very little oftener than once in a year. Thirty-seven days is the longest recorded in London.

Possibly one of the major benefits of a fine early summer instead of a dripping one is that conferred on the Territorials and others who are doing their annual fortnight's training in military camps. It may be surmised, too, that it had some little to do with the tremendous success of the enrolment of the new Militia, the conscripts of 20 years of age.

Dreary wet weather, such as we sometimes have in June, might have affected the enthusiasm with which the lads registered at the Labor exchanges. For enthusiastic they were. Many of them carried their tennis racquets, cricket bats, or golf clubs, Saturday afternoon being the time set. More than one bridegroom drove straight from his wedding, his bride waiting for him in the car outside.

They were of every class and type. It was "duke's son, cook's son" over again. Young fellows who had been tailored in the West End queued up with mechanics in overalls and youthful policemen in uniform.

Women from the Peace Pledge Union picketed many of the offices and handed leaflets to the boys urging them to "think again" and put themselves down as conscientious objectors.

The recipients, for the most part, simply laughed at them. They were engaging in a great and delightful adventure. They were about to escape from the monotony of office and workshop to enjoy six months of comradeship with others of their own age in an occupation which, fortunately, still appears to British lads, under conditions as to food, lodging and recreation better than too many of them had ever known. Lord Nuffield, by the way, has seen to this last by setting up a recreation fund of $7,500,000 for the conscripts and Territorials.

In all there are about 300,000 men in this country who are in their 20th year. Of these 219,964 registered on the appointed day. More than 50,000 are, for various reasons exempt; others are out of the country or in hospital, and still others, owing to special circumstances, will be allowed to register a little later by post. It follows that the response was as complete as the most sanguine could have expected.

Persons who registered as conscientious objectors numbered 3,775, a mere 1.7 per cent of the total registrations.

British youth has reported for duty.

Press Freedom Is Upheld At Union Parley

LONDON, June 29. — Constant vigilance against the "growing menace" of legislation aimed at restricting freedom of the press was urged today by successive speakers before the Empire Press Union conference in session here.

Delegates, including many of the Empire's foremost publishers, devoted the entire day to discussion of the subject in which censorship, secrets acts, libel laws, labor legislation and restrictions on report divorce cases came under review.

The general tenor of the debate was that every effort must be made to resist to the utmost or other devices of control, but also that publishers must guard against abuse of their privileges.

Just to prove once again that it's tough to be vice-president: nobody has troubled to ask John Garner if he'd like a third term.

Ottawa Police Chief Says Government Must Save Canadian Youth

WINDSOR, Ont., June 29—A despondent army of Canadian young men and women must be led back to the fold of respectability and it is up to the Dominion government to provide leadership, Chief J. P. Downey of Ottawa told delegates to the Chief Constables' Association convention Wednesday.

"Youth on the march—nowhere," was the topic of Chief Downey's paper in which he outlined the troubles of 100,000 persons between 16 and 25 years of age who are unemployed in Canada. Many of these youths are "bumming" about the country in search of employment, he said.

"BEG, STEAL OR STARVE"

"A large percentage of these enforced nomads face the proposition that they must beg, steal or starve," the chief said.

"I naturally do not approve of stealing but if I had to make my choice between it and starvation, what do you imagine I would do?"

The sprinkling of young women now found among hitchhikers and those in box cars is making the situation much more serious, Chief Downey said.

"My personal opinion is that the responsibility for leadership rests upon the shoulders of the Dominion government and this vital problem must be divorced from politics."

Chief R. E. Brown of Biggar, Sask., in a paper on "Police service and what it means," attributed the large crime sheets in some parts of Canada to undermanned police staffs.

He attacked the theory police departments should pay their way through collection of penalties and said the smaller the crime sheet the better the record of the department.

"Prevention should be the aim of every efficient officer and not vengeance," Chief Brown said.

"Now Let's See..."

"Your baby isn't badly hurt . . . we'll have her all right before you can say Jack Robinson . . . we've lots of time so don't fret your little heart . . ."

Grandad is welcome . . . particularly if he can "pay his way". He gets a great kick out of life because he's independent . . . and can buy the little things that spell happiness for others.

You'll be surprised how little it costs now to be independent later in life . . . and at the same time provide for those dependent on you if you should not live to enjoy retirement.

A good case for Character

Among people who know how to judge whisky—the evidence is always in favour of Scotch with Character. And Black & White makes the most of the case. For behind this great Scotch exhibits a definite personality—a distinctive individuality—a Character all its own. You taste it in the magnificent flavour. You sense it in the rare and delicate bouquet. The verdict is always the same! Small wonder people ask for Black & White ever after!
